Chamberlain Sees Hitler, Makes Plea For Calm

TWO TO CONTINUE THEIR CONFERENCE ON CZECHS TODAY

Prime Minister Cautions Against Incidents Which Might Endanger Peace in Turbulent Europe.

OTHER MINORITIES IGNORED IN TALKS

Chamberlain Prepared to Stay Until Definite Agreement Is Reached.

GOESBERG, Germany, Sept. 22.—(P)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler weighed the future of Czechoslovakia today in the first of a series of delicate conferences marking their second meeting in eight days.

Lest the progress of the momentous talks be disturbed by incidents in the republic, Chamberlain followed up a three and one-quarter hour session with Hitler with a two-edged appeal for "maintaining a state of orderliness."

The appeal, seen as addressed to Germans and Czechoslovaks alike, stressed Chamberlain's belief that "the first essential" was "a determination on the part of all parties and on the part of all concerned to insure that local conditions in Czechoslovakia are such as not in any way to interfere with the progress of the conversations."

"The prime minister appeals most earnestly, therefore, to everybody to assist in maintaining a state of orderliness and to refrain from action of any kind that would be likely to lead to incidents."

The negotiations will continue tomorrow morning and there was no indication how long they would last though it was said Chamberlain had come prepared to stay several days.

(In Berlin, a reliable German source reported the conversations were limited to the Czechoslovak-German situation.)

(The German delegation, it was said, expected the British delegation in the second day of discussions to submit concrete plans for quick union of Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland to Germany.)

Preceded here by Hitler, who arrived by train from Munich in the morning, the British leader flew from London to Cologne and continued by automobile to his hotel atop Petersberg, British delegation headquarters across the Rhine from Godesberg.

He arrived with his suite at the Hotel Dreesen, Hitler's headquarters for the occasion, at 4 p. m. (10 a. m. Atlanta time) and the Fuehrer greeted his visitors warmly at the entrance before the conversations began.

The fact that the talks will continue tomorrow was taken as indicating Chamberlain hoped to negotiate settlement of other European problems as well as the Czechoslovak issue.

Tomorrow's meeting will begin at 11 a. m. (5 a. m. Atlanta time).

For the first part of today's discussion, Chamberlain and Hitler were attended only by their interpreters, I. A. Kirkpatrick and Paul Schmidt.

Benes Turns to Army Head To Uphold His Government

General Syrový Rises as 'Strong Man' Premier of Czechs.

PRAGUE, Sept. 23.—(Friday.) (P)—President Eduard Benes early today called on his army to protect the Czechoslovak people against "unfriendly elements" he said were attempting to arouse enmity toward the government in the tense atmosphere of foreign pressure on Czechoslovakia.

The president's communication to the armed forces came a few hours after a new cabinet, headed by General Jan Syrový as premier, assumed control of the government.

An official communique issued after midnight declared the Syrový government was one of "order, controlled strength and experience."

It added that despite the fact the new government is headed by the Czechoslovak army's inspector general it is not "a military government," terming the cabinet "not an expression of political parties, but of work for the republic."

"In this day our nation is experiencing a deep sorrow," the communique said.

5 COUNTIES REJECT PROTESTS FILED BY GENE TALMADGE

Democratic Committees in Pike, Meriwether, Oglethorpe, Seminole, Clinch Refuse Recount.

EX-GOVERNOR SAYS FIGHT TO CONTINUE

Defeated Candidate Is Planning to Appear at Hearing in Habersham.

By the Associated Press.

Five county Democratic executive committees, the first of 34 faced with senatorial primary contests by Eugene Talmadge, yesterday turned down the former Governor's petitions for recount of the September 14 primary ballots.

Talmadge prepared, however, to carry on his challenge of the re-nomination of Senator Walter F. George. He said he would keep the contest within the party and indicated he would continue his fight at the state Democratic convention October 5.

The committees which declined to order a recount were those of Pike, Meriwether, Oglethorpe, Seminole and Clinch counties.

Talmadge appeared before Pike and Meriwether committees. He told the Pike committee, at the first hearing, "The courts can't take part in a party primary. This committee is the first court of resort in a matter of this kind and the second court is the state convention."

Allegations of ballot box stuffing and fraud were withdrawn by Talmadge in Pike and Meriwether. He based his contention for a recount on variations in county totals in the senate and the Governor races.

Could Not See Objection.

"I can't see why anybody should object to a recount," Talmadge told the Pike committee. "Any honest man can make mistakes and that is the reason why I am asking that you recount the votes in this county. A change of 210 votes throughout Georgia, if they had been properly distributed, would have changed the result of the senatorial race on September 14."

Sam D. Hewlett, Atlanta attorney; Charles E. Stewart and John E. Whitley, Talmadge political supporters, appeared with him.

W. H. Beck Sr. and Claude Christopher, of Griffin, and Carl R. Johnson, of Zebulon, representing Senator George at the Pike hearing.

Beck declared Talmadge's petition was not within the law on contest. "There is no legal provision for a recount except on specific allegations supported by proper affidavits," he said. "Only the grand jury can go into a ballot box." Beck said discrepancies in total votes of senate and Governor contests were "a common occurrence in Georgia."

23 More Votes for Senator.

There were 23 more votes cast for senator than for governor in the county. Talmadge said "while there have been small discrepancies in past primaries, this one is particularly significant."

Talmadge planned to attend a hearing on his contest of Habersham county results today at Clarksville at 10 o'clock and of Green county at Greensboro Saturday at 2 o'clock. Hearings were also scheduled in Crawford county (at Knoxville), Emanuel (Swainsboro), Schley (Ellaville) and Hancock (Sparta) tomorrow. Talmadge's office said continuances would be asked in these.

Meanwhile, in Washington, Lawrence S. Camp talked with President Roosevelt. The district attorney for northern Georgia, with the emphatic endorsement of

Hurricane Sweeps Steamer Ashore at New London

New London, Conn., feels wrath of 100-mile-an-hour hurricane, with streets littered with debris. The photo shows a steamer washed ashore by the storm and tidal wave which followed in the wake of the twister. Many were left homeless and without shelter.

COUNTRESS SAVES CHILD IN STORM

Wife of French Consul Splashes Through Water in Hunt for Refuge.

WEST HAMPTON, N. Y., Sept. 22.—(P)—A Countess who fled in overalls with her small baby clasped to her breast and a retinue of servants splashing at her heels gave thanks tonight that Providence had seen fit to spare her from last night's hurricane.

Still shaken from the ordeal, Countess Charles de Fontenay, wife of the French consul general in New York, related her experience at the summer home of Representative John J. O'Connor, the "purged" Democrat who will run for re-election as a Republican.

The refugee countess, who waded out of her own summer place shortly before it collapsed, found a haven in O'Connor's home after a terrifying night in the storm-battered residence of the wealthy William Ottmann Jr.

Disheveled and white-faced, the diplomat's wife came out of the storm, still clinging to her 23-month-old daughter, Anne. She had discarded her overalls because they impeded her flight and was wearing only her underclothing when she reached the O'Connor's.

But, she said tonight, she was glad to be alive. "I am convinced we were spared because of the baby," she said. "Providence looked down upon us through her eyes."

The English-born countess said her first thought when the storm broke was of an earthquake. "The whole house started to tremble," she said. "We began to be afraid something was going to happen."

"Miss Agnes Zeigler, (the baby's young governess), said she would try to find help."

"I was never so frightened in my life," interjected Miss Zeigler. "The wind was howling—whoo-o-o—and the water was up to the floor of the living room."

"She went out, but was unable to find anyone," resumed the Countess. "So when she returned I bundled the baby in a blanket and we all started out together, Miss Zeigler, the baby, the cook and myself."

They struggled to the Ottmann home a half mile away, turning once in time to see their own big rambling frame house collapse with a roar. At the Ottmanns they found 15 or 20 other refugees.

Odds and Ends In Hurricane Briefly Told

By the Associated Press. NEWARK, N. J.—Airplane traffic from New York to Boston was (yet, a press agent said it) "colossal." Five airlines carried 1,000 passengers to the Massachusetts capital during the day.

NEW YORK—Those rowboats in Central Park the sailors have been using on busmen's holidays were taken out of the lake there today. Department of sanitation men drove trucks up to the lake and took 'em away. The boats were welcome in Brooklyn, where some residents were stranded; under the Queensborough bridge; at Coney Island and Rockaway Beach.

HILLBURN, N. Y.—Postmaster James Mulligan came down to the postoffice today to find the door broken down, four holes drilled in the safe and electrical apparatus used to set off explosives screwed into a light socket. But the safe was intact. Current had gone off last night due to the storm, leaving the yeggs without means of entering the safe.

NEW YORK—Dwight Long, of Seattle, told over the radio last night the story of his 25,000-mile trip around the world in his ketch, Idle Hour, without a mishap. As he talked, the Idle Hour was being battered to pieces on a Long Island beach.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—A wind velocity of 100 miles an hour was recorded at the airport here. Then the recording instrument blew away.

NEW YORK—Leslie T. White, Santa Cruz, Cal., author, looted in addition to his 50-foot schooner swept away by the high waves at Greenport, Long Island—two manuscripts totaling several hundred thousand words.

HARTFORD IN PATH OF FLOODED RIVER

Hundreds of Refugees Pour Into City Following Devastating Storm.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 23. (UP)—Hundreds of families were being evacuated from the south end of the city early today as emergency crews worked feverishly to strengthen the Clark dike and prevent a serious inundation.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 22.—(UP)—Refugees by the hundreds poured into Hartford tonight as the roaring Connecticut river went 16 feet above flood level, a short 24 hours after a devastating hurricane spread havoc and desolation through the state.

Many persons were dead with hundreds missing. The injured went into the hundreds. Many communities were isolated.

The Connecticut river was on a rampage. It may equal the 37-foot level reached in 1936, when the greatest flood in history spread ruin through the river valley.

At 7 p. m. the river was at more than 32 feet and going up fast—4 to 6 inches an hour.

State police announced shortly after 8 p. m. that the Bolton dam had burst, pouring tons of water into the small community of 500 population. Telephone communications were down and it was impossible to immediately ascertain whether anyone had been drowned or injured.

The national guard was out in force at Hartford to aid in rescue work and to keep order.

Boat-load after boat-load of refugees, many of them weeping and hysterical, were unloaded at different stations on the fringes of the flooded areas.

Major portions of the city were in darkness.

U. S. Agencies Spur Storm Relief, President Takes Personal Charge

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(P)—Louisville, Ky., itself a flood in a Red Cross estimate that 10,000 families were in distress spurred government officials tonight in their efforts to provide relief, prevent epidemics and rehabilitate public property in the storm-beaten northeast.

Norman H. Davis, the national Red Cross chairman, said the families were in need because of the hurricane, floods, fire and high seas.

He authorized local chapters of his organization all over the country to accept contributions for relief activities in the area. Even before Davis spoke, offers of aid had come from the city of

List of Dead Will Be Found in Page 13.

By the Associated Press. The hurricane's death list mounted with sudden and horrible rapidity last night, totaling 429, as coast guard and state police radio reports filtered in from isolated seven North Atlantic states. Damage was estimated up to $400,000,000.

Amid the widespread destruction brought by the storm—the worst to strike that rich and heavily populated section in a century—the people fearfully watched ever-rising streams.

For the third time in eleven years flood disaster visited Hartford, Conn. As the river topped the 32-foot mark—sixteen feet above flood stage—300 national guardsmen were mobilized for rescue work.

Scores Flee Homes. Scores fled their homes before the approaching water, which reached eight feet in some streets, trucks sped through thoroughfares with sandbags for barricades, and marooned families were rescued by rowboats.

Two typhoid inoculation clinics were opened in the municipal building. There was no danger of a food shortage, but dealers indicated there might be a curtailment in the milk supply with the city's bridge to the east closed.

Elsewhere, river crests also rose. Throughout Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Vermont, New York, New Jersey thousands of homes and cottages fell into smashed and dreary piles of kindling. Hundreds of palatial yachts and small craft were swamped or destroyed. Public buildings were damaged; transportation and communication were halted or crippled. Crops were ruined over wide areas.

Many towns and villages, isolated for many hours, were without food last night.

None could venture a guess as to the number of the homeless, save that it was in the high thousands. From the gilded "Gold Coast" to the poorest slums, the suffering was universal.

WINSHIP UNABLE TO VISIT MACON

Expect to Return Late in Fall, However.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Governor Blanton Winship, of Puerto Rico, who is now in Washington discussing island affairs with Interior Department officials, today said it would be impossible for him to visit his old home in Macon, Ga., before returning to his post.

"I shall probably remain in Washington about two weeks longer," the Governor said, "after which I shall fly back to my post in Puerto Rico. However, I am planning to return to this country late this fall, and I hope to be able to spend some little time at my Macon home. When I do get to Macon I shall, of course, visit my many friends in and about Atlanta."

"Beans are not usually looked upon as poultry feed, but cull beans and feed them as part of a wet mash, similar to the way potatoes are fed."

BARKLEY ATTACKS NEW DEAL CRITICS
Declares Many Republicans Voted for Legislation Under Fire.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(UP)—Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley tonight opened a Democratic offensive against Republican criticism of New Deal legislation affecting business and charged that many of the controversial measures had been supported by Republican stalwarts.

Referring to a booklet recently issued by the Republican congressional committee for use in the forthcoming election campaigns, Barkley said that its criticism of business legislation could serve only to "create astonishment, if not utter bewilderment, in many prominent and ambitious Republican statesmen."

He said that the booklet, which is the result of research conducted by Republican national committee experts, was certain to give many Republican candidates the "shock of their lives, while millions of American citizens, who have benefitted by the laws thus denounced, are going to get a big laugh, if, indeed, their resentment is not aroused."

Republicans mentioned by Barkley as supporting certain New Deal measures criticized by the committee included Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan, a 1940 Republican presidential possibility; Senate Minority Leader Charles McNary, Oregon; Senators William E. Borah, Idaho; Arthur Capper, Kansas; Wallace H. White Jr., Maine; Ernest W. Gibson, Vermont; John G. Townsend, Delaware; Lynn J. Frazier, and Gerald P. Nye, both of North Dakota, and former Senator Lester J. Dickinson, Republican, Iowa.

THREE MEALS A DAY

HOME TESTED RECIPES
BY Sally Saver

In frying doughnuts bear in mind that the temperature of the fat must be sustained throughout the cooking, and that you must have right temperature. If the fat is too hot the doughnuts will not be thoroughly baked, and if it is too cold the fat will seep into the doughnut. About 370 degrees Fahrenheit is an ideal temperature. If you haven't a thermometer, the fat is hot enough when it browns a one-inch cube of stale bread in 60 seconds. Don't fry too many doughnuts at one time.

Have you ever tried serving a slice of canned pineapple or a half of a peach on top of a doughnut, and then garnishing it with fluffy whipped cream? It makes a delicious and attractive dessert. Then, too, at a party, say for Halloween, you could stack them, frosty with superfine powdered sugar, on a stick—then they are decorative as well as delectable. And should doughnuts become a little stale, reheat them and serve with a butterscotch sauce.

Here's some new recipes—a doughnut made out of prepared biscuit flour and a whole wheat doughnut flavored with orange. Mrs. Greene Henderson Sr., of Lawrenceville, sends them.

Orange Whole Wheat Drop Doughnuts.
2 eggs, well beaten.
3/4 cup brown sugar.
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour.
3 tsp. baking powder.
1/2 tsp. salt.
1/2 cup whole wheat flour.
2 tsp. grated orange rind.
1/2 cup bottled milk or 1/4 cup evaporated milk and 1/4 cup water.

1/4 cup orange juice.
Combine the eggs and brown sugar, and beat well. Sift the all-purpose flour together, with the baking powder and salt, and combine with the whole wheat flour and orange rind. Add in thirds alternately with the milk and orange juice to the sugar mixture. Drop from a teaspoon into deep hot fat 370 degrees Fahrenheit. Fry, turning once, until brown and done. Make about 30 drop doughnuts.

Hurry-Up Doughnuts.
2 cups prepared biscuit mix.
1/4 cup granulated sugar.
1/4 tsp. nutmeg.
2 eggs, well beaten.
2 tsp. bottled milk or 1 tsp. evaporated milk and 1 tsp. water.

Combine the prepared biscuit mix, sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg. Add the egg and milk combined, and mix thoroughly. Roll 3/4 inch thick on a floured board, cut into desired shapes and fry until brown and cooked, turning once, in deep fat heated to 370 degrees Fahrenheit or until a 1-inch cube of day-old bread dropped in fat browns in 60 seconds. Make about 14 doughnuts.

Mrs. B. O. Daniel, Route 2, Chipley, Ga., suggests you try her favorite doughnut recipe. She writes: "They do not absorb grease because they rise before being immersed in it."

Doughnuts.
1 cake yeast.
1 1/4 cups milk, scalded and cooled.
1 tablespoon sugar.
4 1/2 cups sifted flour.
1/2 cup sugar.
3 tablespoons butter.
1/4 teaspoon mace.
1 egg.
1/4 teaspoon salt.

Disolve yeast and 1 tablespoon of sugar in lukewarm liquid, add 1 1/2 cups flour and beat well. Cover and set aside to rise in warm place for about one hour or until bubbles burst on top.

Add to this the butter and sugar creamed, salt mace; egg, well beaten, the remainder of flour to make a moderately soft dough. Knead lightly. Place in well-greased bowl. Cover and allow to rise again in warm place for about one and one-half hours. When light, turn on floured board, roll to about one-third inch thickness. Cut with small doughnut cutter, cover and let rise again, about 45 minutes, in warm place until light.

Drop into deep hot fat with side uppermost which has been next to board. Fry to a golden brown, drain and roll at once in powdered sugar.

Beef Creole.
Using Corned Beef.
3 tablespoons bacon fat.
3 tablespoons minced onions.
3 tablespoons diced celery.
2 cups diced cooked corned beef.
3 tablespoons flour.
1-4 teaspoon salt.
1-4 teaspoon paprika.
1-2 cups tomatoes.

Heat fat in frying pan. Add and brown the onions, celery and beef. Add flour and cook it until slightly brown. Add rest of the ingredients. Cover and let simmer for 10 minutes.

Breaded Meats.
There's nothing like a tangy dash of tomato ketchup to dress up a piece of left-over meat. To bring out all the good rich meatiness of yesterday's roast, just try coating thin meat slices with ketchup, then cover with cracker crumbs and fry. Or, if you prefer a barbecue flavor, add a whiff of Worcestershire sauce or beefsteak sauce to the ketchup. Then dip and fry, in shallow hot fat until browned on both sides. Garnish with parsley and serve at once. It's good.

New Hashed Brown Potatoes.

Next time you have a batch of cold cooked potatoes left over in the refrigerator, ferret them out and try doing up a bowlful of hashed brown potatoes, with tart India relish and a generous llop of tomato ketchup. It's got zing, zest, zip and so: Slice thinly 2 or

TROUP ALLOCATIONS ARE REDUCED $40,000

LAGRANGE, Ga., Sept. 22.—Reductions totaling about $40,000 have been made in allocations from revenue to be raised by the 15-mill tax rate for the various departments of Troup county's government for the current fiscal year, officials reveal. The drastic cuts have been made necessary by a decrease in the 1938 county income to $116,687.34 from the $156,295.40 figure of the preceding year. Reductions have been made in the indicated expenditures for eight of the 11 branches of county government, the three exceptions being the sinking fund, public roads, and county officials' allotments. Largest decrease was in the allotment for construction of a new courthouse, the 1938 allocation being $23,337.47 as compared with $60,687.34.

Bicycle Patrol Will Push Drive To Make City 'Accident Conscious'

Atlanta bicycle safety patrol members will meet with patrol masters in regular session at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the various junior high schools to further the program to make juveniles "accident conscious," it was announced yesterday by Captain Jack Malcom, head of the police traffic bureau, sponsor of the patrol.

While several thousand youngsters already have been enrolled in the corps, an effort will be made to enlist the majority of the 15,000 or 20,000 boys and girls of Atlanta and Fulton county who ride bicycles.

Co-operation of parents is urged by the traffic department head in getting the youngsters to join. All children possessing bicycles have been invited to attend the meeting at their respective schools today and bring their bicycles for inspection. Membership cards in the bicycle patrol will be issued today to all not now possessing them. The card bears on one side a copy of the safety rules laid down by the traffic bureau for the patrol members found guilty of violating these rules are subject to dismissal from the patrol, according to Captain Malcom.

Another innovation to be inaugurated later, when the corps is more completely organized, is formation of "traffic courts" among the respective patrols. Judges and other court officials will be appointed from among the patrol members and they will be charged with the duty of passing sentence upon fellow members.

DEATH TOLL HITS 400 IN HURRICANE

Flooded Rivers Add to Suffering in Storm-Swept Areas.

Coast of Long Island's north and south shores, the suburban homes of many of New York city's wealthy, to the ancient fishing villages of New England's coast, there was suffering.

The Weather Bureau at Washington revealed that the death toll might have been considerably higher had the storm not veered away from New York city by the barest margins.

The nation's largest city, with its scores of skyscrapers and millions of inhabitants, would have presented a huge target.

Forecaster Charles L. Mitchell said the "blow" broke all records for rapidity of movement and continued intensity, traveling 600 miles at about 50 miles an hour. The usual speed, he said, is 12 or 15 miles an hour.

The federal government, at President Roosevelt's express command, moved up its vast resources for rescue and protection against disease and to expedite the movement of freight for the vast job of reconstruction that must now be faced.

Federal food and drug agents were directed to make systematic inspections against contamination. Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins hurried from the west coast by plane to take charge of the hundreds of relief employees called to help in relief work.

In the area of disaster, thousands of troops, police, Red Cross men and women, Boy Scouts, naval reservists and civilian volunteers were at work. There was minor looting reported.

Hardest hit of the seven states were Massachusetts and Rhode Island. Massachusetts reported 106 dead; Rhode Island, 223; Connecticut, 53; New York, 44; New Hampshire, 13; New Jersey, 2, and Vermont, 2.

In Canada, the Province of Quebec, had a single death, but much damage. Food supplies appeared adequate for the immediate future in most sections, but some isolated towns in Massachusetts reported shortages.

The hurricane, which appeared

Hurricane Scene Is One of Desolation

By PAT McGRADY.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(P)—From the air, the coast of Long Island for miles today presented a scene of desolation and wreckage.

In a plane, flying with Lieutenant Theodore Harris, one of the coast guard aces, I looked down and saw roofs floating with walls, walls without doors and whole houses afloat.

We saw bodies clad only in shoes and socks. The wind had blown off the rest of the clothing. We saw desolate sand, or whitecapped waves, in the places where several little Fire Island communities had been before yesterday's hurricane.

We must have seen 1,000 small wrecked boats—capsized, cast up on what is now dry land or pounding to pieces against the shore. A fairly large yacht in Moriches bay was broken in two, and the halves were floating a mile apart.

late yesterday to have blown itself out in the Canadian provinces of Quebec and Ontario, was followed by fire in some cities. A 300,000 cubic feet gas tank exploded in Providence, R. I., amid the gale, and a 10-hour blaze helped push the total damage in historic old New London, Conn., to some $4,000,000.

Score of Deaths. Half-isolated Cape Cod, jutting out from Massachusetts into the open sea, reported more than a score of deaths at its base near the mainland.

An amateur radio operator reported the small fishing village of Menemsha on Martha's Vineyard, a small island off the elbow of Cape Cod, was literally swept away and at Edgartown, the county seat, scores were driven from their homes by the rapid rise of water. Many buildings in the island town of Chilmark were destroyed.

The near-by island of Nantucket escaped with less punishing blows. Governor Hurley, of Massachusetts, declared a food and fuel emergency. National guardsmen marched into 23 towns in the state to preserve order and to facilitate relief work.

Grim tales of lighthouse men and their families came into coast guard headquarters at Boston. One told of Arthur A. Small, lighthouse keeper at Palmer's Island, in New Bedford harbor, who, from his lighthouse tower, saw his wife swept to sea in the debris of their near-by house.

At Prudence Island, in Narragansett bay, the top of the lighthouse was blown down. Coast guards said the wife and son of the lightkeeper, George T. Gustavus, died when the tower fell.

Thirty fishermen lost their vessels, and their livelihoods, at Block Island, Rhode Island, and at Jamestown, R. I., the fishing fleet was wiped out.

The center of tragedy in New York state, where deaths approached two-score, was at the exclusive Long Island beach town of West Hampton, playground of New York society, where 12 were

He Joins SEC Counsel

M. NEIL ANDREWS.

He joined the Securities and Exchange Commission as counsel.

Eleven bodies lay for hours in the West Hampton Beach Club, awaiting identification.

At least a thousand homes, summer cottages as well as year-round residences, were smashed throughout Long Island.

In the central part of the state the report on the rivers was the same as elsewhere—"rising."

Connecticut, where the danger of flood was great, reported 1,000 families homeless.

Troops were put on duty in half a dozen towns and cities. New Hampshire suffered widespread loss of livestock and interruption of its milk shipments to eastern metropolitan centers, as well as loss of life proportionately high for its small population.

Vermont, all but isolated, likewise had heavy crop and property damage. Rutland was wholly cut off by flood waters and many families had to be evacuated.

New Jersey's apple and late tomato crops were battered heavily. Six miles of coastal boardwalk was destroyed or nearly so; trees were felled by the thousands.

Among the rivers in the east steadily rising were the Hudson, the Delaware, the Connecticut, the Susquehanna, the Chenango, the Mohawk.

Before nightfall, in upstate New York, many families were forced to flee homes near the banks of overflowing streams.

Merchants in Albany and Troy, N. Y., hurriedly moved stocks from inundated buildings on the Hudson river front. Emergency health measures went into effect in some communities.

Along the Long Island coast, aerial observers saw whole houses afloat, along with bodies dressed only in shoes and socks, the wind and water having torn away all other clothing.

The greatest devastation was along Long Island's south shore and on Fire Island. At Ocean Beach, 300 houses were crushed and scattered about. At least 100 houses had been demolished at Fair Harbor and about the same number at Saithe, Fire Island.

Enrolling waves had reduced what formerly were broad sections of Fire Island to tiny reefs, or nothing at all.

Near West Hampton, the land had the appearance of a child's room on New Year's Day, with all his toy houses and automobiles broken and warped.

The coast guard stations at Moriches bay and Shinnecock were wiped out, leaving hardly a trace. Some of the houses on Fire Island were nearly covered by sand.

The Fire Island lighthouse, that had withstood 75 years of battering, was cracked at the base. Hundreds and hundreds of small boats were pounded to bits by the roaring surf.

On the Long Island south shore, a fashionable area where the rich have their summer places, whole villages were smashed flat.

In the storm area as a whole, the Red Cross officially estimated that 10,000 families were in distress in one way or another—homeless, foodless and the like—and chapters throughout the nation were authorized to take relief contributions.

ATLANTANS HOLD FEAR FOR SAFETY OF LOWRY

Atlanta relatives and friends of Edward G. Lowry, noted writer and former Constitution staff member, were somewhat anxious last night as to his adventures with the eastern storm. With Mrs. Lowry he has lived on Martha's Vineyard for several years. His sister, Mrs. Adie F. Hallman, of Atlanta, and several nephews and nieces reside here.

Other prominent former Atlantans possibly involved in the storm are Dr. and Mrs. Howard Bucknell, of Easthampton, L. I., and their daughter, Mrs. Dixon Potter, the former Sue Bucknell.

TWO ATLANTANS SAFE IN HURRICANE

Mrs. H. P. Nelson Phones About Daughter, Mate.

Mrs. H. P. Nelson, of 201 Fifteenth street, N. E., was assured yesterday that her daughter, Mrs. W. Frederick Williams, the former Margaret Nelson, and her husband were safe in Bristol, R. I., one of the cities struck by the devastating hurricane and tidal wave which swept the northeastern coast.

After a series of frantic long-distance calls, Mrs. Nelson said she reached a leading florist in Providence, R. I., about 15 miles away, and was told that Williams was not injured. "The florist in Providence told me that the storm struck with terrible force there," Mrs. Nelson said. "She said the people were so stunned they hadn't been out to see just how much damage had been done."

TAMPA PUPILS SUSPENDED.

TAMPA, Fla., Sept. 22.—(P)—Suspension of three pupils from Tampa schools for refusing to salute the flag was approved today by the Hillsborough county school board.

WIDOW IS KNIFE VICTIM.

BARABOO, Wis., Sept. 22.—(P)—Mrs. Alberta Gollmar, 62, a widow, was found dead on the kitchen floor of her home today, the victim of knife wounds about the head.

It's Smart to Remember that "LIGHT" IS RIGHT

Schenley's Friendly* Red Label and Black Label... Perfectly Blended for Rich Flavor—Light Body!

The American people have laid down a rule for whiskey taste, and this is it: "LIGHT" IS RIGHT. We obey it by offering you two magnificent blends... both especially blended for the LIGHTNESS that you demand.

Schenley's Red Label is delicate, soft, and alive with pleasure-giving taste. Schenley's Black Label is a rich, round, deep-flavored blend. And they're both full 90 proof... both "tops" in LIGHTNESS!

Both these blends are "melded" by an exclusive Schenley process that makes them smoother. Try them... you'll say, "I'm better off with Friendly* Schenley... because 'LIGHT' IS RIGHT!"

*Friendly to your taste.

EDUCATORS TO HEAR RUTH BRYAN RHODE

Daughter of Late Commoner To Make Address Here October 8.

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Rhode, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan and nationally known as a speaker, will address the fifth district convention of the Georgia Education association at the city auditorium on October 8.

The convention will be a one-day session starting at 10 o'clock in the morning. Mrs. Rhode's subject will be "Modern Arabian Knights."

Teachers of the fifth district will be admitted to the morning program on presentation of their association membership cards. This meeting will not be open to the public.

Ralph L. Ramsey, association secretary, announced yesterday that the program had been arranged by Miss Rasha Wesley, of the Atlanta schools; Paul D. West, of the Fulton county schools; C. E. Steele, superintendent of the Conyers schools and the vice president of the fifth district.

Jewish New Year To Be Celebrated Here Next Week

Congregation Anshy Sfard, 359 Capitol avenue, will join world Jewry in celebrating the beginning of the Jewish new year Monday and Tuesday.

Observance of the holy days will usher in the year 5699, which begins at sunset Sunday. Special services will be conducted on both days by Cantor G. Friedman, and the traditional prayer will be offered for prosperity, happiness and lasting world peace.

Addresses also will be given on both days by F. Taffel. He will speak Monday on "Lasting World Peace According to Our Prophets," and the second day on "The Jewish Situation in Europe Today and Happenings in Czechoslovakia." H. Kalechman, president of the congregation, will talk on the accomplishments of the congregation during the year.

DATE OF RAIL RATE INCREASE DELAYED

ICC Acts on Protests Filed by Atlanta Bureau.

Effective date of the proposed increase in railroad freight rates on iron and steel articles from the south to the north has been postponed until April, it was announced in Washington yesterday. Acting on protests filed by the Atlanta Freight Bureau and other southern traffic organizations, the Interstate Commerce Commission suspended the new schedules and announced a hearing would be held to determine their legality.

It was pointed out that, while only a comparatively small volume of business is affected by the ruling, the principle involved is an important point in the north-south freight rate controversy.

HENRY E. SARGENT DIES IN 18TH YEAR

Graduate of 1937 Class at Hapeville High.

Henry Edward Sargent, 18, graduate of the class of 1937 at Hapeville high school, died yesterday morning in a private hospital after an illness of several weeks.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Mamie Sargent; three sisters, Mrs. Austin Hawkins, Mrs. Westcott Waters and Miss Gretel Sargent, and two brothers, Paul and Jack Sargent.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the chapel of J. Austin Dillon, with burial to be in the Hill Crest cemetery.

Speaks Here October 8

MRS. RUTH BRYAN RHODE.

MILK GROUP SEEKS PRICE APPOINTMENT

Governor Rivers yesterday took under advisement a request of a delegation from the Georgia Milk Producers Confederation that a member of that organization be named to membership on the milk control board. There is a vacancy due to the recent resignation of Guy Holcomb, of Decatur.

The delegation presented the name of O. D. Price, of Monticello. The group was headed by Commissioner of Agriculture Columbus Roberts, president of the confederation; Senator C. A. Holmes, of Culloden, and Representative William H. Key, of Jasper county. Milk producers from nine counties composed the delegation.

LORES H. JACOBY DIES OF INJURIES

Retired Post Office Employee Was Hurt in Ladder Accident.

Lores H. Jacoby, 66, retired post office employee, died Wednesday afternoon at his home, 1017 Highland View, N. E., of injuries suffered September 10 in a fall from a ladder while painting his home.

A native of Illinois, Mr. Jacoby had lived in Atlanta for the last 30 years. He was a member of the Druid Hills Baptist church and the Gate City Lodge, No. 2, F. & A. M.

Surviving are the wife; a daughter, Miss Audrey Jacoby; a brother, W. H. Jacoby, of Topeka, Kas., and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were conducted yesterday afternoon at Spring Hill by Dr. Louis D. Newton. Burial was in a cemetery at Cordele, Ga.

FUNERAL RITES TODAY FOR THOMAS WINDHAM

Funeral services for Thomas K. Windham, 42, former Atlanta real estate agent, who died Tuesday in a Miami (Fla.) hospital, will be held at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill, with the Rev. G. P. McGeachy officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

Mr. Windham was for many years one of Atlanta's best known home builders, having been active in development of Haynes Manor, Country Club Estates and Morningside. He had moved to Miami about six months ago.

Martin's 10 year old now is comparable in price with most famous 8 year old Scotchies.

MIDWAY VANGUARD REACHES LAKEWOOD

Southeastern Officials Arrange for 20 Shows, 18 Riding Devices.

An advance guard of the Rubin and Cherry exposition, "the greatest midway in America," arrived at Lakewood park Thursday afternoon and began preparations for an eight-day showing at the Southeastern Fair, October 2-9. Officials of the exposition will begin this morning to complete all arrangements for the 20 shows and 18 riding devices which will feature the Twenty-Fourth Annual Southeastern Fair and National Livestock Show midway attractions.

The enterprise will arrive in Atlanta one week from Saturday and will be ready for the grand opening Sunday, October 2. A special train, 40 cars long, will bring the exposition to Lakewood park. Rubin and Cherry have made their winter home in the Agricultural building at Lakewood for several years and plans are being made to take up winter quarters as soon as the Southeastern Fair closes its gates at midnight, October 9.

The big exposition has shunned the accepted method of "outdoor" presentation and has reached through the stage doors for a more satisfactory stagecraft.

A full-fledged musical revue entitled "Tops of 1938," has replaced the time honored "girl show." The new presentation offers comedians, singers, dancers and an accomplished tap-and-ballet with an adagio team as one of the features.

In place of the customary carnival minstrel show, Rubin and Cherry presents an expertly produced night club style of entertainment with a personnel of 40 negro entertainers and a swing band. It's the "Cotton Club Capers," instead of the old plantation idea.

OGLETHORPE ADDS COURSES, TEACHERS

New courses and several additions to the faculty of Oglethorpe University greeted students for the opening day of the 1938-1939 term, it was announced yesterday by Miss Russell Stovall, student secretary. The largest registration in the history of the institution is expected.

Dr. Seymour G. Link, associate professor of English, who will offer additional new courses in poetry, short story, drama and journalism, and Mrs. Mae Mills Link, who offers courses in home-making, wardrobe and foods, are among those who met the student body for the first time.

ATLANTA STUDENTS GIVEN RECOGNITION

Evening College's Delta Sigma Pi Honored.

Kappa chapter of the International fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi, at Georgia Evening College, has won the efficiency contest for the sixth consecutive year in competition with 59 other chapters, it was announced yesterday.

The chapter, under the leadership of Thoben Elrod, again turned in a perfect score of 100.00 points. Ranking with it were chapters of the University of Georgia, Northwestern University and the University of Missouri.

A chapter is judged on its major responsibilities—professional activities, scholarship, membership, finances and chapter initiative and administration.

Delta Sigma Pi is the largest professional fraternity in the field of commerce and business administration and has chapters at leading universities throughout the United States and Canada.

MACON EDITOR NAMED HERTY BOARD TRUSTEE

Governor Rivers yesterday appointed W. T. Anderson, editor of the Macon Telegraph, a member of the board of trustees of the Herty Foundation to advance southern papermaking. The Macon editor succeeds the late Dr. Charles H. Herty, for whom the foundation is named.

Mr. Anderson will take Dr. Herty's place as trustee only. The late scientist also was executive director of the foundation. This post, it is understood, will go to Frank Hayward, of Savannah, at present state forester.

WEST POINT, Ga., Sept. 22.—Rabbi Nathan E. Barasch, of Bayonne, N. J., will arrive here Sunday to conduct Jewish New Year services at Temple Beth-El, and will remain for the Yom Kippur services.

BUT IS IT PEACE?

It must not be assumed that the immediate threat of war in Europe has been dissipated by the capitulation of Great Britain, France and Czechoslovakia to the demands of Hitler. On the contrary, this might well be the forerunner of more serious involvement arising from the Chamberlain policy of yielding to the dictator nations.

That the representatives of Hungary, Poland, Yugoslavia and Italy are present in Godesberg, scene of the Hitler-Chamberlain negotiations, is deeply significant. The hungry are closing in on what was Czechoslovakia, and with the democracies of Europe on the run and the United States silent, the next week may either see the complete dismemberment of the Czech republic or a complete reversal of the British stand. It is quite evident the present British policy is that of Chamberlain and not of the people. It is also evident the capitulation of the Czech government at the demand of Britain and France, was accepted by the government and not at all by the people themselves.

There is an old maxim to the effect that if ambition is given an inch, it will take a mile. And Hitler has some new-found friends who also would like a piece of the cake now that Germany has been given a choice slice. Whether expediency will force Chamberlain to yield to these concerted demands, and whether the British government will then continue to support this abject surrender of empire prestige and safety is quite another question.

In the meantime this country must not forget that the boiling troubles of Europe, as yet, place no obligation, moral or otherwise, on the United States. British, French and Czech newspapers have indicated a desire to reproach this country for not interceding on the side of the democratic powers. Some have said this country is entirely to blame for the difficulties with which they are now beset because of the peace efforts of President Wilson. On the contrary, it must be remembered the peace which followed the World War was not the peace that Wilson sought—a peace based on reason and not on hatred. His famous Fourteen Points, one of which was that of the self-determination of peoples, were not the basis of that peace, and the war-time President of the United States then warned the victorious powers that they had planted the seeds of their own destruction.

Also, the people of this country might remember the nations now crying for American intercession were the nations who failed to support the United States when Secretary of State Stimson sought to block the wave of aggression now sweeping the world by a stern attitude against the Japanese seizure of Manchukuo. Had collective security been then as popular in Europe as it is today—collective security in which the United States would pay the freight—the world would not be confronted with the power diplomacy that has swept Europe to the brink.

The task of the United States is to revise the neutrality act in a manner which will prevent entanglement in a European war. As it stands today, the considered opinion of many experts is that it is more likely to lead to war than to prevent it. The task of the United States is to provide security in this hemisphere. In the World War, 126,000 Americans died and $11,000,000,000 in American money was loaned to the European powers in an idealistic effort to wipe war forever from the face of the earth. These Americans would not have died in vain if it had not been for the rapaciousness of the victorious powers; for their frenzy to destroy and humiliate Germany and Austria-Hungary.

The nations of Europe sowed the harvest; there is no reason we should reap it.

If lawyers decided it, some irrelevant Czech would bring up Hitler's past as a paperhanger and a mistrial be called.

IMPROVEMENT BENEFITS

The way now has been cleared for a three-way civic improvement program that in the next several years will result in vast changes in Atlanta and Fulton county.

The city and county have adjusted differences, and are preparing to conduct bond elections in which the citizens will be asked to approve issuance of $4,000,000 in securities by the city and $2,500,000 by the county. This $6,500,000 will be used to supplement federal funds, bringing a total expenditure of between $15,000,000 and $18,000,000 for construction of buildings and for street improvements.

The supreme court has opened the path for immediate launching of the $10,000,000 Atlanta housing program by upholding Richmond Superior Court Judge A. L. Franklin in denial of an injunction against the housing authority of that city.

It is perhaps difficult to conceive the magnitude of the program contemplated, and to realize the manifold advantages which will accrue to the city and county not only from completion of the projects, but from the money to be expended on labor and materials in the construction work.

The expenditure of almost $30,000,000 over a two or three-year period will swell the business income of the city by many times that amount. At the same time, slums will be wiped out and adjacent property will increase in proportion to the extent of the improvements. Hundreds of families will be given decent homes, from which it may be expected that general health conditions will be improved almost beyond comprehension. Fire hazards will be removed, leading to a reduction in insurance rates for the entire city. New and better schools will increase the efficiency of pupils and the system, leading again to greater economies in operation. Streets will be improved, with resultant less wear and tear on the vehicles using them.

It has been well said that Atlanta is the south's Economic Prospect No. 1. The new programs will but enhance these prospects.

POLITICS IN THE SCHOOL

In most of the large cities of the United States, school boards are elected directly by the people. But in many cities, city or county officials have control over them. It is the general opinion of educators that school systems should be kept entirely free from control of city and county politicians, that they should be operated on their own. Most political scientists, however, think the educators are wrong.

In view of the divergent opinion of the two groups, the University of Chicago began a study of school control, some five years ago, to settle the question. An educator and a political scientist, representative of the two opinions, were assigned to the work. After a careful study of 191 cities, 33 of which were actually visited, the investigators in a report made last week agreed the so-called independent school systems were as honey-combed with politics as the dependent or politically controlled systems.

To quote from the report, "the politics with which the schools are beset at the present time are injected just as frequently by school boards as by representatives of the legislative or executive branches of political government. In addition, there are instances of tampering with the schools which involves collusion between the school boards and a political machine. In fact, there is ground for the contention that an independent school board merely provides two possible sources of political interference, instead of one."

Furthermore, in the opinion of the twin investigators, the best school system is one controlled by regular municipal executives. Two reasons were advanced in support of this opinion. First, it enables cities to co-ordinate education with other activities, such as recreation and health; second, it enables voters to put their fingers on the individuals responsible for good or bad school management.

Without doubt the problem which the university undertook to solve is complex and difficult. But it is questionable whether the report contributed anything of a practical nature toward a solution, if there is any such thing. It would seem that any answer to the question as to which is the best, or worst, system of public schools is still a matter of opinion. One thing, however, is certain: As long as the public schools remain "public," there'll be politics aplenty.

A ban on the tooting of car horns in Rome has cut the Eternal City's traffic toll some 18 per cent, as thousands had to learn to drive.

A federal art project has been hunting for wooden Indians in Chicago. Scouts should be sent to interview the manager of the Cleveland ball club.

Editorial of the Day

MISTRESS OF THE SEAS?

(From The Dallas Morning News.)

Great Britain, perturbed over rising unemployment and national debt at home and alarm the decline in merchant marine trade and in shipbuilding. According to Paul W. Ward, of the London bureau of the Baltimore Sun, Britain had 50 per cent of the world's merchant tonnage in 1900, but now has only 26 per cent.

More British merchant ships are being built in foreign yards than in Britain, and in 1929 Britain was building 20,000,000 pounds' worth of tonnage for foreign customers, but this year the total is off to 3,500,000 pounds.

Dependent upon foreign trade for their very existence, the English realize how near to starvation they came during the World War when the German submarine campaign was at its peak. Parliament is being reminded of such emergency and also knows that now England's population is greater than in 1914-18 and fewer ships are available to transport food.

The main trouble with the industry, however, can be traced directly to the strangulation of world trade and the self-sufficiency programs of various countries. The net result is that there are too many vessels on the sea for the reduced volume of trade. Freight business no longer justifies expansion in the industry by the shipowners. The sooner tariffs are lowered and exchange difficulties ironed out, the sooner international trade will increase. There also will be a corresponding gain in international good will. But a continuation of self-sufficiency and isolation will only increase the world's economic tension.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

EFFECTS OF WAR WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—In this country the first effects of war abroad would be felt in the financial community. At the President's orders, therefore, the fiscal authorities of the government have spent these last days of crisis in prolonged and anxious conference. Under the leadership of Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., they have explored every danger involved in world conflict, and prepared plans to meet it.

It may now be stated that their conclusions are distinctly encouraging, and that their plans foreshadow no serious financial dislocation. The conclusions were well summed up by a high treasury official, who said:

"With war in Europe, an eventual boom is almost inevitable in the United States. All commodities are bound to be in great demand, and unless the enforcement of the neutrality act is extended beyond the mandatory provisions, heavy industry will be much stimulated. Only the first shock need be feared, and we are convinced the financial system is strong enough to stand it. It was very bad in 1914, but although there is danger of hysteria today, the basic situation is far better than it was then."

As for the broad plans, they involve the establishment of some sort of national financial policy committee, probably headed by Henry Morgenthau, which would be charged with the control and supervision of the entire situation. In the discussions with officials of the Treasury, Federal Reserve Board and Securities and Exchange Commission and representatives of the great New York banks, such a committee has virtually been set up already.

AS IN 1914? The dangers discussed at the recent conferences have been dramatized already in the severe stock market break of September 13. Although it was widely rumored to have been the result of dumping from abroad, confidential Securities and Exchange Commission figures indicate that, on that day, the foreign selling balance was no more than an average $2,000,000. The break was caused by small customers of the wire-houses, who were terrified by the dark news in the headlines, and hastily sold their holdings.

Yet the break seemed a prevision of conditions similar to those in 1914. In 1914, it was necessary to close the New York and other markets for some time, until the growing war boom had stimulated resumed trading on an outwashed black bourse.

Naturally, therefore, the immediate question arises, will the exchanges be closed this time? Apparently, the answer is that they won't. Closing them was discussed at great length by the commissioners of the Securities and Exchange Commission, with Assistant Secretary of the Treasury John W. Hanes sitting in as liaison man. Of course, if war should come, and its coming should be followed by a really serious panic, the decision not to close might have to be revised. But, on the urging of Secretary Morgenthau, who argued that closing the exchanges would be a confession of weakness, it was planned to exhaust every other possibility before taking the drastic step.

MAMMON'S STRONG TEMPLE There are fairly simple reasons why the world conflict under discussion would, however, involve England and France. Because of their need for American supplies, and because the Johnson act closes American credit sources to them, these countries would be likely to nationalize the American securities owned by their citizens. The object would be to realize a large cash balance in the United States, but it would not be to England's or France's advantage to pour the nationalized stocks and bonds on the New York market.

Therefore, such plans have been tentatively discussed as an American syndicate, which would take the English and French holdings, hypothecate them with the banks, and thus have the cash ready. As for the other real danger—the chance of hysteria—tentative preparations have also been made for a lowering of federal reserve margin requirements, and for placing minimum values on leading stocks, to prevent disastrous liquidation.

So much for the securities exchanges. When civilization itself may be at stake, it may seem cold-blooded to be testing the foundations of Mammon's temple. Yet it is well to know what may happen, even to Mammon's temple. General financial policy remains to be examined.

SILHOUETTES

By O. F. REEVES.
(Guest Columnist.)

"We are but pieces of the game he plays."

Upon this checker board of Nights and Days.—Omar.

The audience is hushed and stilled, Upon the stage the spotlight beams.

The puppets, dancing on their strings, Are silent as the ghosts of dreams.

They move by unseen hands about the stage.

In dance grotesque or dance sublime—

In anger, disappointment, love, Throughout their little span of time.

The spotlight fades, the play is done.

And over all the shadows creep— The hand selects them, one by one And gently puts them back to sleep.

For a number of years we have flipped the pages of The Constitution each morning to see what Silhouettes had to give us. Long before we met and knew Ralph Jones, the editor of this column, we felt a kinship for him, engendered by his philosophy and tolerance as expressed in his column.

"Silhouettes" . . . thin cutouts pasted on a background to sharply define the lines. Shadows . . . Shadows . . . shadows? "We have found a world of substance in these silhouettes, and in the shadows, we have found the forms of those who move puppet-like in this mystery men call life."

We move about, each a little universe in ourselves. We carry with us, hidden from the world, all of us, wreaths of thought too fragile to bear the weight of becoming words. Then someone, more gifted than ourselves, puts the fragments of thought into a pattern of words . . . words so potent they transport us and our thoughts to peaks of greater vision. And that is art.

The Inner Glow; Created Beauty.

She was a girl from Utah, homely and totally lacking that evanescent thing, called "spiritual beauty," which sometimes compensates for physical unattractiveness. A beauty culture magazine offered a prize to some young woman, ugly and unattractive, who would become a subject for experiment; on which she became an expert in their skill. We have just seen her picture, "before and after." A great transformation has been wrought. An operation on her nose, the skillful plucking and shaping of eyebrows, the curling and treatment of one straight hair and the proper use of cosmetics have made the girl from Utah a beautiful and charming person.

Comparing the pictures, this thought impinges: "What has happened to the girl from Utah beneath that exterior of created beauty? Has her soul awakened to live up to the exterior, artificially created? Will pride in that beauty stifle some fine spark and leave only a smoldering where a warming fire might have grown? Is beauty only a sleep-deep after and what is beauty?"

ON BEING DECENT.

Dr. Bascom Anthony, honored and beloved Methodist minister, who has lived a long time in the glory of God and the blessing of humanity, in his weekly column in the Wesleyan Christian Advocate of September 16, writes on the subject, "I Wish We Were Decent." I pause to say that Dr. Anthony's column is worth the price of this magazine, many times over, and that every Georgian might read what he writes every week.

"Most people are decent and law-abiding," begins Dr. Anthony. "They have never been arrested for crime, had a case in court, nor put their fellow man to a dime's expense in caring for them. They have not only been self-supporting, but self-regulating, and have helped care for others. A man who doesn't do this is either unfortunate or mean or no account."

"But let's get back to the statement that if everybody was decent we would have a great world to live in. There'd be no jails, no penitentiaries. If under an impulse a wrong was done, it would be frankly confessed and amended. Restoration and not punishment would be the end sought. If only we could end the vices of idleness, laziness, self-indulgence, luxury, cheating, oppression, and war we would put a stop to the steady stream of the devil's poor and of able-bodied grafters who are willing to serve the devil that they may get something for nothing. The Lord's poor are not numerous, and are easily provided for. In the long run vice creates poverty where virtue produces wealth. I wish we were decent . . ."

What about that for sound, common sense preaching? Utopian, you say? Impractical? I will ask you if anything less than such decency Dr. Anthony pleads for will work. Has anyone discovered any principle apart from the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount that will work to the good of all? God grant that we may heed his words of the Beatitudes and that such men as Dr. Bascom Anthony.

Diplomatic NEW YORK, Sept.

Repatriate 22.—Adolf Hitler sounded a new note in diplomatic repatriate when he called the president of Czechoslovakia a liar, and Mussolini has taken his pitch from his leader in this, as in other recent matters. In his speech at Trieste, Mussolini, in essence, called Pope Pius a poor half-wit, describing thus all those who "try to make it believed that we have obeyed or imitated or, worse, have been influenced" by the Nazis. To be sure, the Pope is not the only one who has observed the Duce's emulation of his German leader, but he is by far the most influential of those who have noted, in the large sense, the similarity of the so-called Paso Romano to the original goosetep. The Pope has been the most outspoken opponent of Mussolini's imitative anti-Semitism, and there can be no question that, in putting his finger on the truth, he tweaked the Duce's personal vanity.

Roles

Up to a few years ago Hitler was the imitator, and the Duce gloried in his role of originator. He was not even courteous when Hitler still wearing his gray sleep-in raincoat, made his first visit to Italy to study the original model at close range. The Duce even then had begun to adorn himself with tassels, golden ropes and other trappings which, in his imagination, seemed imperial and looked upon the mild-mannered Fuehrer with the contempt of a Hollywood star for a hungry extra. Hitler was just setting up in business and feeling his way at the time and frankly went to Mussolini to take lessons from one whom he thus acknowledged a master. Red-eyed, sallow and grubby and wearing a mustache invented by a comedian with purely comic intent, Hitler was to Mussolini as a barnyard chicken to a bird of paradise, and anyway the Duce disliked him personally.

Only three years ago, during Mussolini's visit to the Potemkin village of Pontinia, on the Mediterranean, an official of his foreign office, in charge of the ballyhoo division, informed the foreign press—in a little saloon, by the way—that the Duce looked upon Hitler with the natural contempt of a genius for a plagiarist. Moreover, the lusty Duce, with his well-known inclination to the boudoir and haystack, regarded the celibate Hitler as a person not quite maître.

Gradually—but irresistibly since then—Hitler has overtaken and passed the Duce, and Mussolini has seen himself, his regime and Italy fall into the status of inferior partner in the axis. Hitler pirated the Duce's original plan but embellished it with the appeal of racial divinity, which he found in a museum of German political antiquities, and acquired such power that Mussolini had to admit to himself that the crummy eccentric had something, after all.

Dream

The Duce's trip to Munich seems to have been the point of his undoing. Bedight now in a fine uniform and surrounded by soldiers even more gaudy than the German lion tainers, Hitler toiled him along dream streets of banners, bayonets and—not to fumble for a descriptive word—ballyhoo, and sent him home blinking.

In the interval, awaiting Hitler's return visit, Mussolini drilled a company of his own troops in the goosestep, and nothing has been more deadly to Italian pride and the leader's prestige than this act of oblation. Either his soldiers couldn't learn the goosestep or they rebelled, for they strode like so many girls of the Junior League imitating the faultless fluency of the incomparable Rocketts. They floundered shockingly, and although Mussolini attempted to save his people by calling this act of tribute the Roma step, Paso Romano, they would not have it by any name, and nothing has been heard of it since.

Transfixed in this unwise mood of trustfulness, the Duce saw Hitler sweep down to his northern frontier, and he finds himself today the politico-military flunky of a power much stronger and bolder than himself.

In the language of Hitler's vaunted culture, Benes is a liar, and Mussolini, true to the spirit of the Paso Romano, by intimation calls the Pope a poor half-wit, and let God Himself not speak out of turn. (Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution.)

If You Kill the Fox That Eats Your Geese, Who Will Kill the Rabbits That Eat Your Garden?

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Nature uses one species to hold another in check, but she never permits the strong to exterminate the weak.

Always some remnant of a weak species is preserved, for it is needed to destroy the surplus of some species weaker still.

The large creature that feeds on a small one is a benefactor, for if the small one had no enemies it would soon overrun and consume the earth.

If all fish eggs hatched and the young matured, the seas would soon be filled with squirming creatures so tightly packed that none could swim.

All literate people now know the story of California's ladybugs. A pest from overseas, unchecked by its natural enemies, threatened complete destruction of fruit trees. A world-wide, patient search at last discovered the pest's natural enemy, the ladybug, and the trees were saved. The bugs were hatched under artificial conditions, turned loose in the orchards, and left alone to devour an enemy that all of man's science was unable to conquer.

Other pests would make the earth uninhabitable if man's folly should exterminate the natural enemies that now prevent their increase.

There is a wee hard-shell insect called the pine bark beetle that destroys the largest trees in 30 days. Sometimes it kills a 10-mile forest within a month. Its chief enemy is the yellow-bellied sapsucker, whose sticky tongue explores the beetle's household and destroys him by the million. If there were no woodpeckers, there would be no pines.

Few of man's smaller enemies are more destructive than the cutworm. Left free to multiply, it would quickly devour all vegetation. But nature provides an enemy to subdue it. The parent of the cutworm is a night-flying moth. And the much maligned screech owl devours an average of 150 female moths in a night, thus accounting for a batch of 300,000 cutworms.

Rabbits and mice, harmless as they seem, would fill the earth with famine if they had no enemies. One pair of either species, if all of its progeny matured and multiplied in turn, would increase to more than 12,000,000 within three years. They don't multiply that way because they are fodder for owls, hawks and snakes.

Every bird killed means a weakening of man's defense against the insects that threaten his living, and the utter extermination of any insect family might leave man exposed to a greater enemy.

The safest course is to trust nature, regard all life as sacred, destroy only the immediate menace, and leave the whole scheme to Providence until we learn to improve upon it.

ONE WORD MORE.

By RALPH MCGILL.

So, the 'War'

Doesn't

Concern Us?

Most everyone is familiar with the prize-fight manager whose assistant was taking a terrific beating. "Stay in there kid," yelled the manager. "He can't hurt us."

Perhaps there are those who think the troubles of the Czechs, the duplicity of England and France, the arrogance of Germany will not at all hurt us.

They can, and will. International trade already is in the process of reorientation. It will continue. We cannot escape losses. Germany, from Austria and Czechoslovakia, controls the Danube. That controls all the Czech trade. It means control of all the Balkans and the Danube basin. All this will come under the "economy" of Germany. They will take German goods.

The Czechs did approximately $15,000,000 in business with America in 1936-37. That was import and export. That's gone.

Hungary did an import business of more than a half-million dollars. That's gone.

Carry it on through, including Poland.

British, French and United States trade will suffer from the new trend and economy. England already is making efforts to obtain an Anglo-German trade agreement at the same time she seeks one with the United States.

The affair of Czechoslovakia will be felt in the autumn trade reports.

Meanwhile Germany is suffering. There can be no reasonable doubt standards of living are lower. This is inescapable in the reports which show the Reich's taxes for August, 1938, amounted to 1,305,000,000 marks as against 1,080,000,000 for the same month the year before while at the same time imports were up and exports down. Taxes are about 26 per cent of the national income. When taxes are up and the trade balance more unfavorable than before, living conditions are lower.

Germany lives by importing raw materials and selling manufactured products. For the time being, Germany is buying more and selling less.

That's why they look toward the riches of Czechoslovakia and toward the grain and oil fields of Hungary and Rumania.

Also, it is well to remember the Skoda arm works of the Czechs are larger than those of Krupp at Essen.

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"The devil can cite Scripture for his purpose."

The devil can quote statistics, too. In the controversy over whether the south is "the nation's No. 1 problem," the quoting of statistics has no end. Everybody is devilishly able to produce just the figures to show what he wants to show or deny what he wants to deny. And nearly everybody seems motivated not by a desire for the truth but by a desire to support or oppose the New Deal, or further or frustrate the southern labor movement, or indulge or deny southern pride.

The south is a problem and the problem is national, no matter what its rank. The south is the poorest part of the country in an economic sense, even if not so poor as some of its would-be saviors from outside would have it. The south happens to be the part of the country most discriminated against in national policy. But the very things that make the south a national opportunity. If it ranks as No. 1 as a problem, it ranks No. 1 also as an opportunity, as a potential new market. The whole country has much to gain in a lifting of the south to the economic level of other regions—and the south itself has more.

Shrewdness would suggest that southerners let themselves be called the nation's No. 1 economic problem whether they think they are or not. A No. 1 problem is entitled to No. 1 consideration, No. 1 concession, No. 1 favor when matters of competition between regions arise. No federal administration which looks upon the south as a No. 1 problem can consistently or decently fail to make the freight rate adjustment (large or small) without which the south is limited in approach to competitive markets.

But isn't the government cunningly calling the south a primary problem in order to justify more interference, more planned economy, more attempts to force wage increases southern employers can't give and stay in business, more dictation of racial and social matters?

REGENTS ASK BIDS ON $63,000 BUILDING

The State Board of Regents yesterday asked bids for construction of a $63,000 auditorium-gymnasium for Abraham Baldwin Agricultural College at Tifton. Bids will be opened at the regents' office in the capitol October 7 at 3 p. m.

The office also announced Georgia Southwestern College at Americus reported registration of 343 for the term beginning yesterday, an increase of 29 over last year.

TRIAL OF NEWTONS NEAR JURY'S HANDS

Aaron Nelson Expected to Face Court in Sylvania Today.

SYLVANIA, Ga., Sept. 22.—(P)—Judge J. T. Grice said today the case of Joe Newton and his son, Ralph, accused of complicity in the swamp slaying of wealthy Charlie Daughtry, probably would not go to a jury until tomorrow morning.

He said he did not plan to charge the jury until then "unless for some reason" lawyers concluded their arguments previously. Solicitor General W. G. Neville announced Aaron Nelson, the seventh defendant in the case and one of the chief witnesses for the prosecution, would be placed on trial tomorrow.

State and defense attorneys started arguments in the Newton case after Judge Grice denied a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal.

Daughtry was shot to death a year ago today in a turpentine swamp near his Rocky Ford home. Osborn Newton, John Burns and Lonnie Lanier were convicted in the slaying and given life-term sentences. Albert Cobb, Savannah attorney, indicted as an accessory, was acquitted.

WOMEN POSTPONE STATE EXPOSITION

Club Federation Announces Extension to Week of May 15, 1939.

Postponement of the first annual Georgia exposition under auspices of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs from the week of October 10 to the week of May 15, 1939, was announced yesterday by Mrs. James R. Little, president of the federation.

"Responses were so much in earnest and in such proportions that we found it would be impossible, in so short a time, to put on the type of exposition the people of Georgia want," said Mrs. Little. "Through this postponement they will get what they expect—a real exposition of goods made and grown in Georgia."

Virgil W. Shepard, managing director, and many members of the board of directors said they are convinced an exposition of Georgia-made and Georgia-grown products will be tremendously popular in May.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD AFTER LONG SEARCH

Dismembered Body Located by Dog in Cornfield Near Georgia Home.

ADRIAN, Ga., Sept. 22.—(P)—The dismembered body of Mrs. Mabelle Price, 40-year-old Adrian resident, missing from her home 38 days, was discovered this morning in a corn field a mile and a half from her home.

Chief of Police L. D. Sandifer said the body was found by a farmer, attracted to the spot by the barking of his dog. His expressed the opinion Mrs. Price had not died a violent death.

The woman, mother of three sons, disappeared from her home the morning of August 15 after purchasing groceries from a local store. The disappearance was discovered by neighbors when they found the unopened groceries on her kitchen table two days later.

A coroner's jury was empaneled shortly after the body was found today and returned a verdict that the woman came to her death by "causes unknown."

Shortly after her absence was noted last month, residents of this Emanuel county town joined in an extensive search for the missing woman, searching in the wooded areas near here. Sheriff George Barwick, of Treutlen county and Sheriff P. L. Yeomans, of Emanuel, directed searching parties.

Chief Sandifer said while no organized search had continued since a few days after the woman was reported missing, he and county authorities still were investigating the disappearance when he received word this morning that the body had been found.

He said Willie Pool, a tenant farmer, discovered it while pulling corn in the field. The excited barking of his dog caused him to investigate.

Funeral services will be held for Mrs. Price tomorrow in Sardis Baptist church, near Kite.

Survivors are her sons, Golden Price, of the Brunswick CCC camp, and Earl and Hammon Price, both of Mt. Vernon.

Alderman Maps Laws To Meet Autoists' Alibis

Alderman Roy Callaway, who has frequently presided as judge in recorder's court, is going to sponsor some laws to fit the objections the judge always hears, he said yesterday.

First, he will introduce at the next council meeting a proposed ordinance prohibiting parking within 25 feet of stop signs erected on the corners at street intersections.

"This will preclude the excuse of motorists that they didn't see the stop sign because of a car parked too near it," Callaway said.

The alderman pointed out the 25-foot ban has worked well in Washington, D. C., and other cities.

The present ordinance prohibits parking within 15 feet.

SOUTH'S TROUBLES 'UP TO CONGRESS'

National Emergency Council Parley Held in Americus.

AMERICUS, Ga., Sept. 22.—The solution for the south's troubles apparently lies with congress and not solely with the administration, south Georgians declared at a regional meeting of the National Emergency Council, held here yesterday.

Leaders recalled that President Roosevelt, speaking in Barnesville, referred to the south as the nation's No. 1 economic problem, and intimated he would "do something about it."

Dr. C. H. Foreman, Georgia director of the NEC, called the meeting here, at which Dr. C. B. Gosnell, of Atlanta, presided.

The meeting was in the form of an informal discussion, and representatives from seven counties were present.

ROME YOUTH KILLED UNDER TRUCK WHEELS

ROME, Ga., Sept. 23.—Thomas Raymond Ables, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Ables, of Rome, was killed here today when he was thrown under a rear wheel of a truck as it swerved around a South Broad street curve.

City Policemen Horace Stewart and D. Roberson, who investigated the accident, declared it was unavoidable, and no action was taken against the driver of the truck, listed as Archie Ellis Young. Ables and two companions, Cliff Vinson and Howard Shifflet, were given a "lift" into town by Ellis.

Rites for young Ables will be held at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon in Old Armuchee Baptist church, the Rev. Gordon Ezell officiating, and burial will be in the church cemetery.

COTTON CROP AIDED BY LACK OF RAINFALL

WINDER, Ga., Sept. 22.—Because no rain has fallen in this section since August 11, following a long period of excessive summer rainfall, cotton has opened faster than it could be picked, and farmers have had fine weather for picking and ginning.

With no rainfall to cause stains, cotton is sampling better than it has for years, practically every bale sampling "good white cotton," and to date not an "off" bale has been offered on local markets.

WINS $250 FOR EYE.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Sept. 22.—P. J. Buckley, courthouse custodian, has been awarded $250 in a suit against the city for the loss of an eye, injured by an overhanging yucca plant on one of the city's streets. He had sought $5,000 damages. In a former trial the city won the case, but a new trial was granted by Judge A. L. Franklin.

Hoke Smith Principal Joins in Editorial Conference

"That looks good to me," says Roy Davis, right, new principal of Hoke Smith Junior High school, as he inspects a copy of "The Vanguard," school publication, while Bobby Cole, left, president of the student body, and Vivian Oliver, Vanguard editor, looks on. Mr. Davis taught at Joe Brown and Boys' High before being assigned to his present post.

JOSEPH ROSSIGNOL, CROCY TRIAL SET

Hay Announces Court Calendar for October.

Trial of Joseph Rossignol and A. Joseph Crocy, Atlanta investment bankers, on charges of violating the securities and bankruptcy acts is set for Monday, October 10, I. K. Hay, assistant United States attorney, announced yesterday.

Other cases scheduled for the October term of United States district court, Hay said, are against the Georgia Marble Company and the Stone Mountain Granite Company, both charged with violations of the Elkins act, and against P. Bayfield Gibson, charged with violating the securities act.

Hay explained that the names on the court calendar posted recently in the clerk's office are only those indicted by the federal grand jury, and constitute approximately half the cases pending. Court opens October 3 he said.

GOOD YEAR SEEN FOR HOKE SMITH

Junior High 'Off to Good Start,' Delights New Principal.

Hoke Smith Junior High school is "off to a good start" and should enjoy one of its best years, in the opinion of Roy Davis, who has just assumed his duties as principal.

A veteran of 14 years of service in the Atlanta public school system, Mr. Davis is a graduate of Mercer and was six years at Joe Brown Junior High and eight years at Boys' High before being appointed to his present position.

"I'm delighted with the school and everybody in it," he said yesterday. "I'm sure there is no finer faculty in the city of Atlanta and everything points to a highly successful year, both in the classroom and in outside activities."

FINAL RITES HELD FOR MRS. WALKER

Native Carolinian Is Buried in West View.

Funeral services for Mrs. William T. Walker, who died unexpectedly Tuesday night at her home in Riverdale, Ga., were conducted yesterday afternoon at Spring Hill by the Rev. Arthur T. Allen. Burial was in West View cemetery.

The former Miss Ellenore Rowe, of Nebo, N. C., Mrs. Walker made her home in Atlanta, where she was a member of the Jackson Hills Baptist church for many years. She had lived in Riverdale for the last three years.

Burialbearers yesterday were Emmett Johnson, George W. Clayton, Fred N. Watts, J. Neal Jordan, George D. Guess and Orvis A. Roberts.

New Film Openings Bring Music, Romance, Racket-Busting, West

Gable, Miss Loy at Grand; 'Lady Objects' at Rialto; Bing Crosby at Fox; 'A Western at Capitol; Paramount Has Melodrama; 'Boys Town' Goes to Rhodes.

Musicals, racket busting, adventure and a western are classifications into which the new films opening in Atlanta today will fall. "Too Hot to Handle" finds Clark Gable and Myrna Loy co-starred in an adventure story of the life of a famous aviatrix and the news-reel cameraman she loves. It's at Loew's Grand.

Lanny Ross has a leading role in "The Lady Objects" at the Rialto. He sings several new members. At the Paramount is "Racket Busters," the name gives you an idea of the story. George O'Brien matches wits and brawn

Say it with a Clear Skin

NO man or woman wants to have a finger poked at them or receive sympathy because of an unhealthy skin appearance.

Some skin troubles are tough to correct, but we do know this—skin tissues like the body itself must be fed from within.

To make the food we eat available for strength and energy, there must be an abundance of red-blood-cells.

S.S.S. Tonic builds these precious red cells. It is a simple, internal remedy, tested for generations and also proven by scientific research.

You, too, will want to take S.S.S. Tonic to regain and to maintain your red-blood-cells... to restore lost weight... to regain energy... to strengthen nerves... and to give to your skin that natural health glow.

Take the S.S.S. Tonic treatment and shortly you should be delighted with the way you feel... and have your friends compliment you on the way you look. There is no substitute for this time-tested remedy. No ethical druggist will suggest something "just as good."

S.S.S. Tonic stimulates the appetite and helps change weak blood cells to strong ones.

Gable, resting from his duties as photographer of the Sino-Japanese War, is teaching Chinese children the big apple. Here he encounters Miss Loy, famous aviatrix, and persuades her to fly to China. She also agrees to transport Gable's news reels to America in her plane, in return for which Gable's boss promises to finance the South American jungles.

Miss Loy's brother, also an aviator, is being held captive by an Amazonian tribe who worship him as a white god. Miss Loy sets out to rescue him, pursued by Gable and Pidgeon, cameramen, to record the drama for news reels. Miss Loy rescues her brother, after considerable danger, but during the trip she and Gable, who have fallen in love, become estranged. Myrna tells Gable she never wants to see him again, and then, as soon as he has gone, repents, and sets forth to find him. She knows exactly where to look in the thick of a gun-battle between New York gangsters and police. The rain of bullets brings "Too Hot to Handle" to a lively and thrilling climax.

Bing Crosby's Latest.
Bing Crosby's latest comedy, "Sing You Sinners," which opens today at the Fox theater, turns the crooner away from the fast stepping and energetic role he played recently in "Doctor Rhythm," and plants him in a role reminiscent of the one he had in "Waikiki Wedding." Bing portrays the happy-go-lucky and never-does-well son of a small town family who wins fame for himself and his madcap family by persistent nerve and his incomparable good fortune.

Fred MacMurray plays the role of Bing's serious-minded and despairing brother, whose romance with the girl next door consists of one postponed wedding date after another, due to the family playboy's inability to get himself a permanent job. Elizabeth Patterson, the garrulous but good woman of the movies, seen recently as Claude Colbert's aunt in "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," portrays the boys' long-suffering mother. Donald O'Connor, the new juvenile find, completes the family group.

Paramount's newest star discovery, Ellen Drew, who is being hailed in Hollywood as the new Cinderella, has her first big film role as MacMurray's sweetheart who shares the disappointments, joys and, finally, triumphs of the unpredictable "Beebees." Wesley Ruggles, who is known throughout the film world for his skill in handling light-hearted comedy plots, both produced and directed the picture. Movie-goers will remember him as the man who filmed Mae West's unforgettable "I'm No Angel" and, more recently, Claude Colbert's "I Met Him in Paris" and "True Confession."

$662,069 PWA FUND AWAITS CONTRACTS

Director Cole Says Agreements Will Be Signed Within 20 Days.

Contracts for 18 Georgia projects that will release $662,069 into the hands of private industry will be let within the next 20 days, H. T. Cole, regional director of the Public Works Administration, said yesterday.

Scattered throughout the state, the program embraces school houses, street improvements, waterworks, sewer systems and municipal and county buildings. Administrator Harold L. Ickes has approved grants for $297,931 for financing the projects.

Since the beginning of the year Cole said, Public Works Administration has approved a construction program totaling $10,840,000 for 187 projects in Georgia, and has allotted $4,800,000 in grants for the buildings. The 1938 program, he pointed out, is approximately three times greater than the program for the preceding year.

In 1937 PWA granted $1,518,081 to build 51 projects in the state at an estimated total cost of $3,372,611.

Applications for a waterworks extension and three school houses, to be completed at an estimated cost of $107,702 were filed yesterday in Cole's office. PWA was asked to grant $48,466.

Chatsworth submitted plans for a $32,727 school building and a $31,000 waterworks extension program. The city asked a grant of $14,727 for the school, and a loan of $17,050 plus an allocation of $13,950 for the waterworks extension.

The Girard school district in Burke county filed an application for a grant of $10,222 for a $22,715 school building. Toccoa requested that $9,567 be allocated for a school building to cost an estimated $21,260.

An amended application increasing the scope and cost of a planned hospital was received from Moultrie. The cost was increased from $125,000 to $145,000, and a grant of $65,250 was asked.

Rising Mercury To End Atlanta's Cold Snap

Atlanta's coldest September weather in 10 years will come to an end today, the weather bureau reported last night. The forecast is for fair and warmer, with the thermometer expected to reach 80 degrees, and go no lower than 55. Yesterday's low was a record-breaking 48.

The arrival of the equinox today, Forrester Minding said, was "of no significance." The equinox, storms of great intensity and an abrupt change from hot to cold weather occasionally come close together, he said, but more often the period passes without incident. He pointed out that fall does not arrive arbitrarily, but comes only with cold weather, usually several weeks after the equinox has passed.

'Bug' Prisoners Promptly Make Bond of $1,000

A raid on a house at 309 Felton drive, N. W., yesterday afternoon resulted in the arrest of five negroes on "bug" charges and the confiscation of a quantity of sheets, tickets and $208.50 in cash by Fulton county policemen and sheriff's deputies.

The prisoners were listed as Sam Davenport, 56, alleged leader of the lottery syndicate; Ada Davenport, 40; Mamie Harris, 37; Beulah Maddox, 32, and Corine Frambaugh, 28. All gave the Felton drive address as their home number.

Placed under $1,000 bond each, which they posted promptly, the five negroes walked out of Fulton tower a short time after being booked.

LEGION POST NO. 66 LAUNCHES DRIVE

Harry Byrd Group in Decatur Starts Campaign for Members.

Inauguration of an intensive membership campaign by the Harold Byrd Post No. 66, American Legion, of Decatur, was announced yesterday by John Lynch, commander.

Explaining that the drive was launched in connection with the national American Legion convention in Los Angeles, leaders predicted the post would "go over the top" in the 1939 campaign.

Headed by Major Claude C. Smith, vice commander and general chairman of the membership drive, staff of 22 team captains has been appointed to conduct the campaign. A membership roster has been erected on the DeKalb courthouse lawn and names of all new members will be printed on this board.

The captains are Scott Candler, Paul Estes, Ed Gavin, W. W. Colquitt, Herman Maynard, R. K. Whitford, Tom Fountain, Frank Cagle, Neil Cameron, Rube Mobley, K. C. Cofer, C. W. Mitchell, A. M. Wilkinson, John Lynch, Ernest Johnson, Sam Nimmo, Noah Stone, Virgil Shearer, R. P. Tull and Major Smith.

Setting 500 as a goal, the captains hope to make contact with every one of the approximately 1,000 ex-service men in DeKalb county. During the past year the post has had a membership of 240.

Decatur's Legionnaires Ready for Drive

War Crisis Divides Political England, Says Atlanta Banker

James D. Robinson, Back From Abroad, Declares British Masses Inclined to Support Chamberlain; Impending Conflict Causes Visitors to Cut Trip Short.

Threatened war in Central Europe has divided political thought in England into two militant schools—that led by Neville Chamberlain and that directed by Anthony Eden—with the masses inclined to cast their lot with the prime minister.

This is the belief of James D. Robinson, Atlanta banker, who returned late yesterday after a brief sojourn in England and Scotland. He was accompanied by Mrs. Robinson and Thomas H. Daniel. The trio, and several other Atlantans, returned to this country Monday on the Queen Mary after official, in the face of impending war, advised all Americans to leave Europe.

Throughout his stay in the British Isles, Robinson said he found people vitally interested in every move made in the "poker game" for territory but they were not nearly as concerned as Americans.

"The people were ready to go to war and were not in favor of submitting to Hitler," Robinson said. "Everywhere they were talking of fighting."

"That's when I decided it was time to come home," he added. After hearing such impressive war talk it was a surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Robinson and Daniel to learn after arrival in the United States that England and France had submitted to Hitler's demands.

"But I think the people will continue to support Chamberlain," Robinson said.

On the return ocean voyage, Robinson and Daniel said they found the passengers much more interested in the outcome of the Georgia elections than in the European war situation. Among the passengers were Associate Justice James C. McReynolds, of the United States supreme court; former Supreme Court Justice George C. Sutherland and Henry L. Stimson, former secretary of state.

Social Welfare Council Changes Name to Social Planning Council

Change of its name to Social Planning Council was decided upon by the Social Welfare Council at its first fall business meeting at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon.

"The change," said Cherry Emerson, president, "was viewed as more descriptive of the objectives of the council." He described the objectives as follows:

- (1) To promote the social welfare of Atlanta and vicinity through co-operative planning and co-ordinated service of its health and social welfare agencies.
- (2) To secure the necessary facts for such planning by studies and surveys of the community.
- (3) To increase the effectiveness of the work of health and welfare agencies by improving the standards of service.
- (4) To increase public understanding of what is being accomplished and what needs to be done by Atlanta in the field of social welfare.

"This," said Emerson, "may lead to council recommendations for enlargement or modification of the activities of existing agencies, or it may mean encouragement of the creation of new agencies to cover unmet needs."

"All progressive cities like Atlanta are feeling the need of a strong central agency of this kind to act as a clearing house of information on the social service needs of the community and of co-operative effort in meeting such needs."

According to plans adopted at the meeting the work during the coming year will be done through four sections: Health, under the chairmanship of Lewis D. Sharp; family and child care, under the chairmanship of Dr. J. R. McCain; group work, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Luther Rosser, and interpretation, under the chairmanship of Tarleton Collier.

Another change in policy of the council adopted at the meeting was in regard to classes of membership. Under the new ruling, membership in the council will be of two kinds, agency membership, entitling public and private social and health agencies doing an acceptable job in this community to two delegates, and individual membership in the council, to be extended to persons interested in community planning for social welfare. Miss Rhoda Kaufman is executive secretary of the council.

Mayor Hartsfield To Polish Schooling

Mayor Hartsfield, who received his law degree a number of years ago, is going back to school again soon—along with other veteran members of the bar.

The mayor will attend the school September 30 and October 1 in the federal building where lawyers of all ages will convene to study changes in civil procedure in federal court. "There are always so many new laws and changes that lawyers have to study all the time to keep up," the mayor said.

5 COUNTIES REJECT TALMADGE'S PLEAS

Ex-Governor Says He Will Take Fight to State Convention.

The President, ran third in the primary. He told White House reporters he did not discuss politics with the President, and classed as "nothing except rumor" speculation he would receive another federal post.

In Atlanta, Governor Rivers declared he knew "nothing about" any need for an extra session of the general assembly. The State Welfare Department is said to be forcing necessity for more revenue and reduced expenditures in all state department was indicated for the remainder of the year.

No Contest in Baldwin.

Talmadge's office here announced he was not contesting the primary result in Baldwin county. Young H. Fraser, Talmadge law associate, said supporters filed the contest there, but it was not authorized.

The Pike county committee voted to reject the recount petition in executive session and the vote was not announced. The Meriwether committee voted 15 to 11 against a recount. There were 26 of the committee's 36 members present.

Folks Huxford, secretary of the Clinch county committee, said 18 of 27 members attended the meeting and voted "not to grant a hearing or recount." He said "the members felt that entire fairness was maintained and there was no fraud whatever." Neither Talmadge nor George were represented there.

No Specifications.

H. C. Whitehead, chairman of the Oglethorpe committee, said the contest was dismissed there because "it did not specify what ballots or for whom the ballots were cast." He said the committee adopted a resolution "disapproving" the contest because the committee had "declared it a legal election" and "because the reflection on the committee was not appreciated."

Three attorneys represented George at the Oglethorpe session. Talmadge was not represented.

Chairman Joe E. Johnson Jr., of the Seminole committee, said the group decided the contest petition was "too loosely drawn and too vague." George was represented by four attorneys, who presented a motion to dismiss the contest. Talmadge was not represented.

Termites Take to Oil, So Sheriff Nabs 'Foe'

The failure of termites to terminate their existence after application of a "sure fire treatment" resulted yesterday in the arrest at Milledgeville of J. M. Clay, 26, on charges of cheating and swindling.

Sheriff W. L. Harrison said Clay worked a termite treatment racket, selling a solution which proved to be used motor oil. He was arrested by state patrolmen and deputy sheriffs on complaint of a woman whose property had been treated.

Fulton county officers said Clay was arrested here in August, 1927, on a charge of violating the liquor laws and that he jumped $200 bond.

HEINZ HEADS GROUP PLANNING TO FETE AIR TRAVEL WEEK

Banker Names Aides to Assist in October 1-9 Observance.

Henry C. Heinz, Atlanta banker, has been appointed chairman of the Atlanta committee planning observance of National Air Travel Week here, October 1-9, it was announced yesterday.

The week is sponsored by those persons and businesses interested in making the people of America air travel conscious and during the week progress made in commercial aviation will be demonstrated, Mr. Heinz said.

To work with Heinz in planning the local program are the following committeemen: Cecil Hester and Jack Gray, from the city of Atlanta; Ben H. Lockett and G. E. Merritt, of the United States mail service; William K. Jenkins, of the Chamber of Commerce; Jesse Draper, of the National Aeronautics Association; Wiley Wright, of the Bureau of Air Commerce; R. C. Copeland, of the Civil Aeronautics Authority; Oscar Bergstrom and Dick Hager, representing air transportation companies.

Chess Lagomarsino was named to handle publicity for Air Travel Week.

During the week's observance, the air lines will have the latest air equipment on display at Candler Field, Heinz said.

National Air Travel Week has been proclaimed by the President of the United States and similar proclamations will be sought from Mayor Hartsfield and Governor Rivers.

Co-operating in the observance are the business enterprises of the city, bankers, schools and civic organizations. Theme of the week will emphasize on safety, Heinz explained.

Throughout National Air Travel Week special programs will be scheduled daily at Candler Field and guides will escort visitors through planes, exhibits and hangars.

The Monroe Doctrine was pronounced in a presidential message on the third of December, 1823.

Frankfurter Is Favored for Court In Survey Taken of U. S. Lawyers

Senator George Among Four Contenders in Gallup Poll.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Felix Frankfurter, 56-year-old Harvard law professor and intimate adviser of President Roosevelt, is the leading choice for appointment to the United States supreme court in an Institute survey of American lawyers.

Receiving more than five times as many mentions as the next candidate, he is the choice of both pro-Roosevelt and anti-Roosevelt lawyers who expressed a preference in the survey.

For second choice Judge Learned Hand, of New York, and John W. Davis, who ran for President in 1924, are tied. Justice Samuel Bratton, close friend of President Roosevelt; Justice J. C. Hutcheson, of Texas, and Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, also received prominent mention.

The vote for the leading choices was:

Frankfurter 27%
Hand 5
Davis 5
Senator George 5
Judge Bratton 3
Judge Hutcheson 3
All others 53

Among those receiving 2 per cent of the vote were Justice Samuel H. Sibley, of Georgia; Justice Ferdinand Pecora, of New York; Senator Robert F. Wagner, Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Judge J. J. Parker, of North Carolina, whom President Hoover nominated for the supreme court, but whose nomination was not confirmed by the senate. The survey covered a cross-section of the 175,000 members of the legal profession.

One of the most interesting sidelights in the fact that although lawyers are predominantly anti-New Deal in sentiment, they favor Professor Frankfurter, who is not only a New Deal adviser, but has sent many of his young proteges to join the President's inner council. Of all the lawyers polled, 38 per cent are for Roosevelt while 62 per cent oppose him. Apparently their own political beliefs play little part in their judgment of a man's qualification for court appointment.

Among lawyers who are pro-Roosevelt the leading choices for the court were Frankfurter, Senator George and Justice Hand.

Professor Frankfurter's popularity among lawyers extends back several years. In February, 1937, when President Roosevelt was attempting to put through his court plan, the Institute asked lawyers to name their choice for appointment in case the plan was adopted.

In today's survey a total of 93 names were mentioned for the court, including one woman, Judge Florence Allen, of Ohio. In addition to the leading choices mentioned above, the list included: Attorney General Cummings, Senator Burke, Senator Clark, Senator Wheeler, George Wharton Pepper, Harvard law school's ex-dean, Roscoe Pound; Charles P. Taft, Thomas E. Dewey, Dean Lloyd Garrison, Senator George W. Norris, James Roosevelt, Solicitor General Robert Jackson, Alfred E. Smith and Senator Vandenberg.

HOTEL—Josephine Hutchinson, stage and screen star, has been selected to play opposite Herbert Marshall in an original dramatization, "Big Saffie," during the "Hollywood Hotel" program to be heard over WGST at 8 o'clock tonight.

Herbert Marshall, in addition to appearing in the dramatization, will act as master of ceremonies in the "Orchid Room" revue, featuring songs by Frances Langford and Jean Sablon, and music by Victor Young's Orchestra.

A CHANCE—Secret ambitions of a former movie star, a successful business executive, an author and a well-known radio personality will be revealed during Cal Tinney's "If I Had the Chance" program to be heard over WAGA at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The quartet which Cal will question includes Mary Pickford, known as America's sweetheart in the silent film days; James Knox, president of a large gelatine company; Gelett Burgess, noted writer, and Harry von Zell, radio announcer and master of ceremonies.

FIRST NIGHTER—"Wall Street Wife," an original drama by Calvin Grinnell, will be presented on the "First Nighter" program to be heard over WGST at 7 o'clock tonight. Barbara Luddy and Les Tremayne will be heard in the starring roles.

The play, based on a wife's determined struggle to make her husband successful in the financial world, opens with the last romantic moments after a transatlantic crossing. Les Tremayne will play the part of Mark Graham and Barbara Luddy will portray Anne Carter.

SERENADE—"The Waltz King" will be heard in another of his popular "Serenade" programs over WSB at 9 o'clock tonight. Wayne and the orchestra will be featured in a half-hour program of songs played in his own inimitable manner which makes him one of the nation's outstanding exponents of the soft, dreamy style of music.

BUYS 1,200-ACRE TRACT. VALDOSTA, Ga., Sept. 22.—H. Young Tillman has purchased from an insurance company a 1,200-acre tract of land known as the Mincola Lumber Company property, located in the upper part of Lowndes county, along the Withlacoochee river.

Wilson Distilling Co., Inc., N. Y. Blended whiskey
90 proof 72% neutral spirits distilled from grain

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP) Chairman O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming, of the government committee on monopoly, assured officials of the National Manufacturers' Association today that the committee would make no attempt to entrap witnesses at its forthcoming public hearing.

O'Mahoney said this promise was given Charles R. Hook, president, and other officials in an informal conference at which committee members exchanged pledges of co-operation with the industrialists.

Funeral services for John Bonamant, Fallaize's 82-year-old son, a business manager, who died Wednesday at his home, 830 Cascade road, after an illness of five weeks, will be held at 11 o'clock this morning in the All Saints' Episcopal church, 1000 1/2 St. Theodore S. Will officiating. Burial will be in Crest Lawn cemetery, under direction of Brandon Band-Condon.

Mr. Fallaize, a mercantile circles man from New York to New Orleans. Mr. Fallaize had been in business here since 1914, after serving with several department stores here. He was the president of the J. B. Fallaize Co. for many years.

Mr. Fallaize's proudest achievement was that he came to this country without acquaintances, yet was not without work one day. He came here, he says, by boat from England. He was a member of the All Saints' Episcopal church.

When you're constipated, it's a great temptation to be satisfied with quick relief. But laxatives may give you a habit. And they don't keep constipation from returning. It's so easy to get at the cause of the trouble!

If you eat what most people do, chances are the only thing the matter is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean how much you eat. It's the kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulk" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

What to do? Eat Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day and you'll get plenty of "bulk." This crunchy cereal contains both "bulk" and the intestinal tonic, vitamin B<sub>1</sub>. And it's not a drug, not a medicine! All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by grocers. Served by restaurants.

'MISSED EDITION' DELAYS BOND VOTE FOR CITY, COUNTY

Election Postponed Because DeKalb's Only Paper Publishes Weekly.

Because the city of Atlanta "missed an edition" the tentative date for a bond election in both Atlanta and Fulton county will have to be delayed one week, it developed yesterday.

City council this afternoon is expected to set November 2 as the election date, instead of October 16 as originally planned. Council is to act on the technical bond ordinance authorizing the city to issue $4,000,000 in bonds as its part of the proposed $15,000,000 public improvement program.

The county commissioners are scheduled to hold a meeting at 10 o'clock Monday morning to arrange preliminaries to issuing $2,500,000 in bonds as the county's share. November 2 is acceptable to the county officials, it was said. Plans called for simultaneous elections in city and county October 26—but they had to be abandoned because part of Atlanta lies in DeKalb and the only newspaper in DeKalb that could officially advertise the election four weeks in advance went to press yesterday, one day before council meets. The paper publishes weekly only.

Meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon, council also will consider calling a referendum on coeducation at the Henry W. Grady High and Girls' High schools as requested by the board of education.

School officials said that if the people desired coeducation and

Atlantans' Wills Leave $13,500 To Churches, 'Y'

Two late prominent Atlantans left gifts totaling $13,500 to churches and the Y. M. C. A., according to wills filed for probate yesterday.

The late Joseph K. Orr Sr. left $1,000 to the Y. M. C. A. and $2,500 to the North Avenue Presbyterian church. The remainder of the estate, of which no inventory was filed, goes to relatives. Executors named are J. K. Orr Jr., Miss Mattie Orr, his daughter, and Miss Frances Jordan, niece.

The late Mrs. Margaret Smyth, widow of a former Atlanta postmaster, William H. Smyth, contained a $10,000 bequest for St. Phillip's Episcopal Cathedral as a memorial to her husband. Other gifts ranged from $500 to $5,000 in cash and went largely to relatives. No inventory was filed.

bonds were voted, changes in the plans of the two schools to accommodate boys and girls will be made as part of the school projects. Some changes may be effected today in allocations of the city's bond fund setup, it was indicated yesterday, although the total amount to be issued, if voted, will not be increased.

In the meantime, city and county officials were rushing preparations for filing applications with the PWA for federal aid in Atlanta-Fulton county projects.

Funeral services for Edward C. Lycett, 54, former professor and football player at Georgia Tech, who died Wednesday at his home, 383 Atwood avenue, S. W., will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon in Peachtree chapel, with the Rev. H. C. Hale and the Rev. M. A. Cooper officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

A native of Dahlonega, Ga., Mr. Lycett was a member of the Tech football team from 1899 through 1901. He was an art professor for many years, later becoming known as a china decorator. He was a member of Battle Hill Lodge No. 523, F. & A. M., and one of the organizers of the band of Yaarab temple of the band of Yaarab.

He was a member of St. John's Episcopal church.

DR. ADAMS OPPOSES 2.5 MILL TAX RAISE

Dr. Charles R. Adams, chairman of the finance committee of the Fulton county commission, yesterday gave the press a letter addressed to Frank R. Flinn, clerk of the commission, asking that minutes of recent commission meetings make clear he has opposed throughout the 2.5 mill tax raise voted by the commission for 1938.

"References were made in the minutes of the meeting of a resolution adopted at the July 6 meeting under which the board agreed to levy taxes in an amount sufficient to pay the expenditures of the county for 1938.

"I think the minutes of both meetings should be corrected to say that I had nothing to do with the resolution except that it was suggested; since it related to finances, it should come in my name as chairman of the finance committee.

"I had nothing to do with preparing the resolution and from the discussion of the resolution I assumed it meant that the board would live within its income on a basis of the previous levy."

Wife Must Come Face to Face With Reality at Some Time in Life

Myrna Loy has a new hairdress for her latest picture, "Too Hot to Handle," her second co-starring vehicle with Clark Gable. Her formal gown, above, is white crepe with rhinestone trim.

Gable and Myrna Loy Dodge Preview Crowd

By HAROLD HEFFERNAN.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22.—Their not-too-private affairs:

Largest preview crowd in months stood half-a-dozen deep in the lobby and along the curb, hoping for a glimpse of Clark Gable and Myrna Loy, co-stars of "Too Hot to Handle." The sightseers were fairly patient until show time, and then, sensing they were to be cheated, set up a wild chant, "We want Gable!" But it got them nothing. Gable was playing poker with a group of friends in the rear of a drive-in restaurant. Myrna stayed home to read "The Yearling." Both harbor a dread of preview crowds and will see their thriller in a projection room at MGM some day this week.

Mrs. Tay Garnett, wife of the director, is recuperating from head cuts, narrowly averting the loss of her eyesight as a result of a peculiar domestic accident. She leaned over the kitchen stove to look at the coffee. The glass bowl exploded in her face. Mary Astor, thrown off a horse several weeks ago, has limped back into the cast of "Listen, Darling," but has sworn off horses for life. The nature of her injury almost paralleled that sustained by Anna Q.

Nilsson, popular silent star of 15 years ago. Miss Nilsson forfeited her career and remained an invalid for several years.

James Alexander, tall, handsome blond with a fine baritone voice, is being tested by MGM and Warner Brothers. He hails from Ohio, and is sponsored by Virginia Sturm, of the Dayton News. RKO has appointed a girl foil for Douglas Corrigan to see that the flyer isn't molested by the studio pretties. Winfield Sheehan, important producing figure in the industry up to a few years ago, is expected to sign a one-picture contract with MGM, producing his own story, "Florian," which concerns the fall of the Austrian throne. A horse is the central character.

It's no gag that Leo Carrillo has become one of the strongest candidates for the mantle of Charlie Chan in the popular series interrupted by Oland's death. Hollywood associates him altogether with Italian dialect parts, but Carrillo once toured vaudeville for several seasons doing a popular impersonation of a Chinese character. Reports are that Darryl F. Zanuck, of Twentieth

Bring Hipline Down as You Reduce

By Ida Jean Kain.

You are going to lose those 10 pounds, but if you want to take seven of them off the hips you will have to exercise.

You probably do not need a tape measure to tell you whether your hips are still on the swell order, but you can remove any doubt by taking your measurements and, right now, while you are on the "Twenty-one Day Diet," is the time to put them on record.

The most important measurements are the bust, waist and hips. Unless they are in proportion to each other, you can't have a good figure. Whether you are a size 12 or an 18, your waist should be from seven to eight inches less than the bust, and the hips only two to three inches more than the bust. How about your measurements? How do they compare?

In the short, stocky figure, the waistline is the troublesome measurement, but in the average figure it is the hip measurement which usually needs jilting. If your hips are 40 inches around, according to your bust measurement, it should be only 36, you need special exercises for the hip to slim more weight off this portion of your figure than any other.

It is not impossible to bring the hipline down so that it will be in proportion. Many of the movie stars have waistlines that are 10 inches less than the bust, and hip measurements exactly the same as the bust. Such lovely proportions are to be credited to outdoor activities like tennis and swimming, and to good, hard exercise.

Don't be satisfied merely to lose your 10 pounds—not when you can lose most of this poundage off the hipline with exercises such as the following:

Position: Lying on mat on back, knees flexed and drawn up against chest, hands clasped around the knees.

Movement: Roll, with hands still clasping the knees, until you are completely over on the right side. Pause for a second, and roll back over on the left side. Keep rolling for five counts, gradually increasing the number.

This one slims the hips and thighs.

Position: Lie flat on the back on the floor, arms out at the sides, knees drawn up to chest.

Movement: Working alternate legs, thrust the leg straight out, then flex it again smartly, bringing the heel down on the hip with a smart slap. As one leg returns to position, the other is thrust out. You feel like kicking yourself for ever letting your hipline get so large, here's your opportunity!

And very good exercise into the bargain, too!

Century-Fox, would sign Carrillo to the part at once, but is fearful audiences won't be able to forget Carrillo's many Italian impersonations. Walter Connolly is another strong candidate of the moment.

Meanwhile, Key, Luke, real Chinese, who plays the son of Chan, wanders the lot forlornly, wondering who will be his new screen parent. Key is anxious to resume his filial role but he's confided to friends that he hopes this time they'll find a screen father who looks like him.

Do You Know?

Q. My husband is very fond of dogs, and I have been afraid of them since childhood. How can I overcome my fear?

A. One of the best ways is to buy a small puppy. Puppies are so harmless and engaging that in all probability you will become as fond of the one you have as your husband. Read the dog stories in Albert Payson Terhune and others to get a better understanding of dogs.

Q. How can milk be fed to children who tire of drinking plain milk?

A. Make fruit chocolate flavored drinks, milk puddings and cream soups.

Q. How may the grayish or greenish color of rice boiled in hard water be prevented?

A. Add a pinch of cream of tartar or a little lemon juice to the cooking water.

MY DAY Deal With Present Situations, Let Future Take Care of Self

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

NEW YORK CITY.—Anyone reading the papers today must wonder a little at the inconsistency of people in high places. Apparently one generation is entirely willing to undo what a previous one has done. Perhaps the only thing we can learn from this is the fact that trying to project ourselves too far into the future is a rather unprofitable business. We might better deal as fairly and as carefully as we can with situations as they are at the moment and leave the future to look after itself.

So many people whom I know are always worrying about what they will leave to their children. I feel quite convinced that it is more important to give your children all the advantages you can so that they may be useful in the world and may meet any conditions which might arise in their lives, than it is to worry about what you may leave them in dollars and cents.

When you pass on, you will leave behind you a generation of well equipped and useful citizens able to manage their own lives and cope with the world as their forefathers did.

I am always proud, and to a certain extent relieved, when any of my own children prove that they are entirely able to cope with life by themselves, for, after all, their own characters are the only absolutely sure thing we can count on in the future. As far as I myself am concerned, I am going to try to do what I can about today and let the next generation deal with tomorrow.

Around 7 o'clock last evening, at my apartment in New York city, I felt as though I was living in a kaleidoscope. My brother said that he and one other person would join us at dinner. Then his younger generation behaved a little the way my younger generation does occasionally, and he found himself giving a party for 12 people.

This was a little beyond the capacity of my apartment and some of them drifted in for a minute and then drifted out again. Finally, four of us reached our dessert in perfect quiet and calm. The party had left! We four probably should have felt depressed that we were not going to join in the gay evening, but I am getting old, and I heaved a sigh of relief that I was staying by my own fireside with no excitement going on.

It rained all night and this day, so Miss Thompson and I dove-tailed our engagements this morning in order that my brother's car and chauffeur could look after both of us. Each time we emerged from a building it was raining a little harder than before. Nevertheless, I have ordered some winter clothes, been to the dentist, bought some Christmas presents, and lunched with an old friend.

Recognizing Situation Where Throw-In Exists

By Harold Sharpsteen.

FAVORABLE LEADS.

The primary purpose of a throw-in play is to create a situation whereby declarer, through a favorable return lead, will be able to win two tricks in exchange for one.

A deliberately planned throw-in usually occurs toward the end of the play, chiefly because declarer must first strip opponent's hand of any possible exit card. This stripping process, however, is not always necessary when the contract is being played at a suit declaration.

SENSING A THROW-IN.

The first essential of this type end-play is to be able to recognize, in the midst of actual competition, when a possible throw-in exists. To simplify this task, first consider some of the common favorable lead situations which frequently occur in bridge.

Situations which develop extra tricks for declarer simply because a defender happens to make a favorable opening.

In the following examples, if West voluntarily opens a low spade, declarer is automatically presented with at least one extra trick through no fault of his own.

Whenever declarer holds any of the following card combinations he may well pause in his play to consider the possibilities of a throw-in to avoid an unnecessary loss of tricks.

One—

North—
S—5 4
South—
S—K 2

Two—

North—
S—5 4
South—
S—K 2

Three—

North—
S—5 4 3
South—
S—K Q 10

Four—

North—
S—A 10 3
South—
S—K J 5

AVOIDS LOSSES.

In example (1) if West leads spades, South makes his king, no matter what spade East plays. (2) A spade lead by West gives South automatic finesse. (3) If West leads spades, declarer is relieved of the responsibility of taking a finesse. (4) A lead by either opponent in spades and South is not required to finesse.

Sometimes the lead is unwittingly made by defender. Frequently declarer will attempt to coax a favorable return lead by letting other tricks ride up to his left-hand opponent. When coaxing fails, declarer may still resort to forcing tactics through the throw-in.

If West can be forced to lead, the play will work to declarer's advantage 100 per cent of the time, against a 50-50 chance of success when declarer is required to lead from dummy up to his own hand.

Till tomorrow.

Doctor Gives Advice On Saline Cathartics

By Dr. William Brady

Among the scores of saline laxatives or cathartics or different kinds of salts there are none I'd have in my own medicine cupboard, but two or three I recommend for those who will take salts occasionally.

To explain why I would not use saline laxatives—if you are curious about it read "The Constipation Habit," copy of which will be mailed on request if you inclose 10 cents coin and a three-cent stamped envelope bearing your address.

Epsom Salt—Magnesium Sulphate. Cathartic dose, from one to eight teaspoonfuls dissolved in from a tablespoonful to nearly half glassful of water. It is a constituent of sea water and of some spring waters, in crystalline form in caves in the Alleghany mountains, and at Basque, British Columbia. Magnesium sulphate is manufactured as a by-product in the manufacture of carbon dioxide from magnesite where the carbonate is decomposed by sulphuric acid.

Persons with kidney disease who take magnesium sulphate may suffer serious poisoning by magnesium, becoming first drowsy and then comatose—the coma may be mistaken for uremic coma. Intravenous administration of calcium salts is the best treatment for magnesium poisoning. Calcium and magnesium are strongly antagonistic. Remember this about calcium and magnesium. Glauber's salts (sodium sulphate) is safer for nephritis patients.

At the Radium-hemmet in Stockholm, Sweden, they do not give radium treatment now for leukoplakia (white patches in the mouth) ordinary warts and papillomas—all of which are regarded as precancerous conditions, but instead give as a rule about 15 grains (a gram, one-fourth teaspoonful) of magnesium sulphate three times a day for three months. Leukoplakias and warts are markedly reduced by this treatment.

Common warts on the hands of children and others often disappear under the same treatment.

Some investigators have observed that cancer is far less prevalent in regions where there is considerable magnesium in the soil and water. This led to the practice of prescribing a teaspoonful of Epsom salt in water two or three times a day, depending on tolerance (allowing three or four loose stools daily but avoiding purging), in advanced cancer cases. No curative claims have been made for this, but it has seemed to give relief from pain, increase in body weight, clearing of sloughs, improvement in patient's mental attitude and sense of well being.

Epsom salt is valuable where the elimination or excretion of metallic poisons, such as lead, is to be encouraged.

It is a fatal mistake to give salts or any other kind of laxative or cathartic to a person with acute bellyache or acute "indigestion" or other acute abdominal distress. In the records of 9,783 cases of appendicitis, 1 in 16 receiving a laxative died, while only 1 in 109 receiving no such first aid died.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Plain Colloidion.

I, too, have found plain colloidion much better to apply to a cold sore on lip or a cracked lip than flexible colloidion. In fact it is the best thing I have found for it. (S. W. E.)

Average Wife Is Incurable Romanticist

By Caroline Chatfield.

A few months ago, a nationally known sports writer turned out a funny piece on the subject of marriage—a trap for women. He just took it for granted that sooner or later every wife realized she was in a trap and he set about to enquire of his women acquaintances at what age they had made the sad discovery. Findings! under forty.

It's true that the average woman is an incurable romanticist and she dreams of having a partner who, in addition to being a great lover, will be healthy, wealthy, handsome and wise. Naturally every wife must come face to face with reality at some time in her life and when she does she's worsted in the encounter. No doubt she has her moments when she wonders why she did it and wonders, too, how she could have been so mistaken in her original estimate of the partner.

There's nothing strange about that. Aren't we all constantly cursing ourselves for poor judgment, getting off the old platitude concerning foresight and hindsight, harping on the same note about our purchases, our investments and our general design for living? No wonder we strike it when the romance doesn't come up to expectations and specifications.

Wives aren't the only class of females who wake up to the realization that they are trapped. I imagine the unmarried woman suspects she's trapped when she turns the key in her apartment door and catches the bus to take her to the office.

It's been going for 10 years and will be going for the next 10—if she's lucky enough to hold her job.

Presumably the maiden daughter who sees her sisters and brothers march off to get married leaving her at home to nurse the old folks, answer their questions, keep them amused and manage and manage harbors no delusions about her freedom. The oldish widow consigned to the corner by her husband's death, deprived of opportunity to meet marriageable men (barring an accident of propinquity) surely thinks she's trapped.

Or the businessman whose life work and savings are invested in a business that's tobogganing, he has the same sensation when he goes over his books and compares this year with former years. And the bachelor who has loved a girl for years on years and hasn't been able to marry her because his parents are dependent upon him and consume all he earns. He knows darn well he's trapped.

Love, marriage, poverty, ill health, affliction, something or other lack of us sooner or later creates awkward moments, makes her socially undesirable.

How embarrassed Bill is as she tries to dash in his car ahead of his mother, instead of correctly waiting for the older woman to step in first.

Yet Kathy could fit smoothly into any group. All she has to do is to keep simple etiquette rules in mind.

Where to sit when you're with an automobile foursome? It saves such a lot of floundering around to remember that a girl usually sits on a man's right.

At the movies, you avoid confusion when you know it's correct to precede your beau down the aisle if there's an usher. When there's no usher, your beau precedes you.

Do not hesitate awkwardly if there's no room for you and your beau to walk up a stairway side by side? You look charmingly poised if you quickly remember that you precede a man going up steps, follow him down.

Even when dining formally, unfamiliar silver and food needn't daunt you. Silver's usually laid in the same order the courses come, the piece you use first is the farthest from the plate. In the piece you use last is nearest it. Use a spoon for liquids and some dessert only, eat vegetables with a fork.

Be equal to any situation. Our 40-page booklet, "Etiquette for Every Day," tells the correct thing to do at dances, dates, movies, when motoring, dining, visiting. Helps you achieve the gracious poise that wins admiration, brings good times.

Send 15 cents for our booklet, ETIQUETTE FOR EVERY DAY, to Home Institute, The Atlanta Constitution. Write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Newest Powder Foundation Performs Two Vital Tasks

By LILLIAN MAE.

I want to introduce to you today, a new aid to beauty. I've always contended every woman should use a make-up foundation of some kind, depending upon the condition and texture of her skin.

There are of course many such preparations on the market, but I have been using a new one very recently—one which I believe you will find as interesting and lovely to use as I have.

It comes in three shades—light, medium and dark, to answer the demand of every coloring, from fairest to darkest. And it's so thin in consistency that it's very easy to use. You might think it would disappear oily and sticky, but there you're wrong. It just melts into the skin and lies over the surface like a thin veil, guarding against wind and weather, and keeping dust and dirt from entering the pores.

It is different from anything I've ever used before. It leaves a cool sensation which lasts for a long time after it is applied.

First, cleanse and thoroughly dry your skin—then with fingertips, spread this foundation sparingly over face and throat. Your skin is immediately ready for the further steps in your make-up, which the new cream holds, in unblemished state, through the greater part of a day, or an entire evening. I'm telling you about this from my own personal experience with the product about which I really am very enthusiastic.

I'll be glad to share the good news further by telling you the name of the product and the Atlanta stores at which it may be purchased if you'll phone me at my office in The Constitution building. If you do not live in the city, write, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

People Do Have Definite Ideas About Breakfast

By Elizabeth McRae Boykin.

Ever notice what definite ideas people have about breakfast? They will take other meals pretty much as they come, but just speak a harsh word about a certain kind of breakfast menu and sure as fate somebody in hearing will pipe up in defense of anything from black bean soup (which I had for breakfast in Japan) to the fried fish I got as an eye-opener in Scotland.

Starting the Day.

I grew up thinking nothing of fried potatoes and steak for breakfast, and hot biscuits went without saying. Up in Maine this summer, however, and his family started their day on baked beans and doughnuts. In England I've had as many as five courses for breakfast, including both fish and meat and topping it with an egg and fried tomatoes.

Partly in the interests of vitamins and partly in the interests of my finger, I meekly restrict myself to orange juice, toast and an egg . . . for six days a week. But on Sunday I throw caution to the winds and have waffles, lovely crispy ones with bacon or sausage, and swimming in butter.

Words of Wisdom.

All travel has its advantages. If the traveler visits better countries, he may learn to improve his own; and if he visits worse, he may learn to enjoy his own.—Johnson.

Three Pretty Aprons by Barbara Bell

They're just as efficient as need be, to protect your dress when you are whipping up a company lunch or serving tea, and don't forget that they add a dainty note of flattery, too. Nothing is more utterly feminine than a sheer, pretty little apron. Make up a supply of them for your own use, and several for gifts, with a long look ahead to the holidays. They are nice for bridge prizes, too, as well as for little birthday and engagement remembrances.

Any woman who ever so much as fixes a cup of tea will enjoy having some aprons like these, in dimity, organdy, dotted Swiss or percale, pastel-colored or in pretty flower prints.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1595-B is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36, for apron at top of sketch requires 1 7-8 yards of 35-inch material and 2 yards of braid. For apron in center, size 36 requires 1 3-4 yards of 35-inch material, with 6 yards of braid; and for apron at bottom, 1 3-4 yards of 35-inch material, with 9 yards of braid.

Price of pattern, 15 cents. Do not send stamps.

"Debutanteless" Winter Looms as Third Attempt To Form Club Fails

Lone Messenger Brings Report Of Prospects' Change of Heart

By Sally Forth.

FOR the first time in social history Atlanta will be minus a Debutante Club this winter!

The third and final attempt made yesterday to organize a club failed when members of the "receiving committee," who assembled at the Driving Club to welcome this season's buds, were "stood up" by the prospective debutantes.

The atmosphere was charged with tension. Officers of last year's coterie, ambitious society editors, and impatient cameramen nervously awaited the arrival of the group expected to "bow," but as "time marched on," excitement and hopes of a brilliant social season died, and the gathering became nothing more than "a pause that refreshes."

Suddenly a motor was heard in the driveway! Hopes for a Debutante Club soared—but briefly. A lone messenger, Lillian Klein, entered and made the sad report that prospects for the 1933-34 club had undergone a change of heart, and to inform the welcoming assemblage that they waited in vain.

With no further parley, the meeting was adjourned, and thus "the props were knocked from beneath Atlanta's social season." From this point on it must shift for itself!

A ROMANCE that began five years ago on a blind date will culminate in a brilliant late fall wedding in Marietta when one of that city's most popular belles becomes the bride of a former Georgian. The belle in question is a lovely blonde, the second daughter of her parents, and is a charter member of the Cotillion Club, being active in social circles. The groom-elect is a representative of a well-known middle Georgia family and attended school in Virginia. He is now residing in Newport News, Va., where he and his bride will reside following their marriage.

QUITE the most interesting news of late concerns the marriage of a popular Atlantian, Jim Scates, to Mrs. Florence Reed, of Pittsburgh, Pa., which took place recently in New York city. Mr. and Mrs. Scates returned this week from a honeymoon cruise in southern waters, and are at present visiting the bride's parents, who are among Pittsburgh's most prominent citizens.

Mrs. Scates is noted for her personal charm and moves in the Smoky City's exclusive social circles. It was at her winter home in Cocoa that she met Mr. Scates, whose residence there is one of the show places of that section. Following their visit in the east, the bridal couple will go to Cocoa, where they will form attractive additions to the winter colony's married contingent of society.

NEWS concerning that former Atlantian, Alexa Stirling Fraser, the one-time national golf champion, is always interesting to her friends. Alexa married W. J. Fraser and lives in Ottawa, Canada. She has been president for two years of the Ottawa Golf Club, an honor justly conferred upon the former Atlantian. The Frasers and their children, Glenn and Sandra, spent the summer at Fort Williams, their home situated on the Ottawa river. Titian-haired Nora Stirling, sister of Alexa, is doing radio work in New York city. She is a microphone artist and writes radio scenarios. The third sister in the family is Janet Stirling Davison, who lives in Baldwin, and recently became president of the state Legion Auxiliary. Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Stirling, parents of Alexa, Nora and Janet, live in Baldwin with Mr. and Mrs. Davison.

Mrs. Owen McConnell Announces New Chairmen for Atlanta Chapter

Mrs. Owen McConnell, regent, introduced the new chairmen for Atlanta Chapter, D. A. R., at the recent meeting, which was presided over by former Governor John M. Slaton on "The Significance of the Constitution." Mrs. McConnell outlined the fall work and announced the chairmen: Americanism, Mrs. Reuben Garland; American Merchant Marine Library, Mrs. George Connell; Base Hospital No. 48, Miss Bird Blankinship; distinguished guests, Mrs. Frances Brown Chase; correct use of flag, Mrs. T. A. Lothrop; flowers, Mrs. W. H. Snav; genealogical research, Mrs. Williston Cost; carpenter, guest book, Mrs. O. H. Wright; gift scholarship, Mrs. McWhorter Miller; hospitality, Miss Willie Fort Williams; magazine, Mrs. S. M. Page Reese; marking historic spots, Miss Virginia Hardin; medals, Mrs. Bunn Wylie; memorial resolutions, Mrs. George Breitenbucher; motion pictures, Mrs. Bernard Wolf; music, Mrs. C. V. LeCraw; national defense to patriotic education, Mrs. H. J. Gaertner; post cards, Miss Fannie Smith; preservation of Bible records, Mrs. Charles M. Love; press, Mrs. Forrest M. Barfield; radio, Mrs. Hugh Dobbin; reciprocity, Miss Virginia Hardin; Red Cross sewing room, Miss Estelle Shepherd; marking Revolutionary soldiers' graves, Mrs. Arthur Allen; scrapbook, Mrs. E. W. Klien; visiting committee, Mrs. Lucius McConnell, chairman; Mrs. George Hillier Jr., co-chairman, and Mrs. Reuben Garland, junior group.

Mr. Slaton emphasized the importance of the constitution of the United States and what it had accomplished in giving to the people freedom of thought, of worship and action, saying that as a result of the American Magna Charta, citizens of the United States have a prosperity unequalled by any nation on earth. Mrs. J. P. Womble gave a paper on "The Marquis de Lafayette" and Mrs. William C. Key sang, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Chalmers. Mrs. G. C. Daley, of Florida, and Mrs. Charles L. Dean, of South Carolina, were visitors and Mrs. C. A. Rhodes, a new member, was introduced. Tea was served by Miss Willie Fort Williams, hospitality chairman, and Mrs. Willis Timmons, Miss Hazel Kirk and Mrs. James S. Jetton.

Miss Culpepper Feted.

Many social affairs continue to be planned in honor of Miss Evelyn Culpepper prior to her marriage October 8 to Edward S. McGinty.

A group of the affianced pair's friends will entertain Saturday evening at a party at the country home of Alvin H. Williams, with Miss Culpepper and Mr. McGinty as honor guests.

Atlantan's Birthday.

Mrs. Louise Jane Belle Isle celebrated her 86th birthday yesterday with her son, A. M. Belle Isle, whose birthday also fell on this date.

They received the congratulations of their friends at the home of Mrs. Belle Isle on East avenue and spent the day quietly with members of their family.

Mrs. Belle Isle is the mother of eight living children, 48 grandchildren and 38 great-grandchildren.

Prominent Pair Weds at Church

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM WOODS.

Among outstanding weddings of the early fall social season was that of Miss Emma Middlebrooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Middlebrooks, and William Woods, which was a brilliant event taking place yesterday afternoon at St. Mark Methodist church.

The ceremony was performed at 5:30 o'clock by Dr. Lester Rumble, pastor of the church, assisted by Dr. Russell Woods, brother of the groom, in the presence of a fashionable gathering of Atlantians and out-of-town guests. Prior to and during the ceremony an appropriate musical program was presented by Miss Irene Leftwich.

Church Decorations.

Quantities of palms and Australian tree fern were banked at the back of the altar, and arranged in front of the altar were three seven-branched cathedral candelabra holding burning tapers. Placed amid this arrangement were four five-branched cathedral candelabra holding gleaming tapers and three seven-branched candelabra, which gave a graceful pyramid effect. Tall pedestal baskets filled with Easter lilies and white gladioli were placed amid the background of greenery. Pews reserved for members of the two families were marked by clusters of lilies tied with white satin ribbon.

Ushers were Robert Strickland, Clement A. Evans, Judge Shepard Bryan, Daniel MacDougall, Henry B. Troutman and E. V. Carter Jr. The groomsmen were George Craft, Douglas Robertson, James D. Robinson Jr., Addison Smith, of Leconia, N. H.; Allison Adams, Philip Alston Jr., Larry DeGivie and Robert Chambers.

Miss Anne Bolling Graham, of Rome, was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Misses Rosemary Manry, Elkin Goddard, Catherine Calhoun, Eleanor Spalding, Sara Smith, Martha Ann Logan, Mrs. S. R. Bridges Jr., Mrs. Frank Ridley Jr., Miss Martha Evans was junior bridesmaid. The attendants wore beautiful models of turquoise blue corsets, the necklines of the gowns were cut square in front and heart-shaped in the back. Soft bows of the material trimmed the front bodices. The sleeves were short and puffed and the long, full skirts flared into short trains. They wore doll hats of matching velvet trimmed with small vintage and bluish-colored plumes. Their slippers matched their dresses, and they carried cascade bouquets of rubrum lilies in the vintage and bluish shades, and lilies of the valley.

Beautiful Bride.

The beautiful young bride, who is numbered among most popular members of younger society, entered the church with her father, Grover Middlebrooks, by whom she was given in marriage, and they were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Edgar A. Woods, who was best man. Her blond beauty was further enhanced by her wedding gown of lustrous ivory satin, especially designed for her youthful figure. The entire bodice was formed of rose-point lace with the new deep V-neck line in front and made high in the back. The long skirt featured a built-in train from the waist line. A handsome real lace veil fell over a misty tulle foundation and was caught to her hair with a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Middlebrooks entertained at a reception at the Piedmont Driving Club for their daughter and Mr. Woods. The hosts and honor guests, and members of the wedding party, received the guests in the ballroom of the club. They stood before a background of palms and ferns and tall pedestals

Caroline Ridley, Pierre Howard Marry in Church

Miss Caroline Hill Ridley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Francis Ridley, became the bride of Pierre Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Schley Howard Sr., last evening at 6 o'clock at St. Luke's Episcopal church, the ceremony being one of the outstanding social events of the early fall season. Rev. John Moore Walker, rector of the church, performed the ceremony in the presence of a gathering of relatives and friends. A musical program was presented by Hugh Hodgson, organist, and Robert Blackwell, soloist.

The church was beautifully decorated with palms, ferns and cathedral candelabra, with lighted white tapers. The vases on either side of the altar held Easter lilies. Pedestal baskets filled with Easter lilies and white dahlias were placed at intervals with seven-branched candelabra grouped in pyramid effect across the front of the altar. Pews reserved for members of the two families were marked by satin ribbon.

Ushers were Thomas L. Camp, Bond Almond, Scott Candler and Eugene Tiller and groomsmen were John Ridley, brother of the bride and Robert Ramspeck. Miss Margaret Ridley was maid of honor for her sister, and the bridesmaids were Miss Jacqueline Howard, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Stuart Sanders, of Richmond, Va. The attendants were gowned alike in beautiful models of dusty rose moire taffeta, fashioned with sweetheart necklines and short puffed sleeves. The long full skirts were corded around the bottom and extended to floor length. The attendants wore strands of pearls, which were gifts from the bride, coronets of Burgundy velvet roses and carried bouquets of rapture roses tied with pale green satin ribbon.

Entering with her father, John Francis Ridley, by whom she was given in marriage, the lovely bride was met at the altar by the groom and his brother, William Schley Howard Jr., who was best man. The bride's beauty was enhanced by her wedding gown of white slipper satin, made along princess lines. The sweetheart neckline was a becoming feature and the long sleeves, puffed at the shoulder, fitted snugly from the elbow and ended in points over the wrists. The long flaring skirt hung in graceful lines and widened to form a circular train. The bride wore a fingertip veil of tulle, caught to her hair with a wreath of orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white Killarney roses, showered with valley lilies.

Mrs. Ridley, mother of the bride, was gowned in a jacket dress of delft blue chiffon, with navy accessories. She wore a shoulder cluster of pink roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Howard, mother of the groom, wore Burgundy lace with matching accessories. Her flowers were a shoulder cluster of gardenias.

Following the ceremony Mr. Howard and his bride left for a trip to New Orleans. For traveling the bride chose a chocolate brown two-piece wool suit with a blouse of brown satin, and matching accessories. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Howard will reside in their new home on Lamont drive.

Career GIRL

Successful career girls make it their business to be well groomed on all occasions. Short on time, yet compelled to present a bandbox appearance to the world, they shop wisely and well. Atlanta's shops have a grand selection of inexpensive clothes that fairly breathe simplicity and chic. They've been designed to satisfy your desire to be smartly dressed, and still meet your budget.

Box pleats break to give bodice and skirt fullness in this black crepe. That's a gold chatelaine highlighting the neck, and the white pique collar is detachable.

Black crepe with haughty shoulders . . . bodice fullness evoked by soft shirring. The turquoise beaded, pleated apron ties on . . . making it a date dress.

Fragile black chiffon pierced with glittering silver and gold stripes . . . atop a sheath of black crepe. Three gold and silver kid buckles mark the tiny waist.

Cleverly cut black and white pin stripe of light wool. There's a soft white sweater under the snug-fitting cardigan.

Jeff Gives a Party at His Apartment And Intentionally Fails to Invite Lyle

By MARGARET NICHOLS.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE. After three months in New York, Lyle Marsh gets a job in the art department of a large department store. Stephen Tennant, the young vice president, likes her work and Suzanne Gibson, the art manager who gave Lyle her job, predicts a brilliant future, thus agreeing with Bonnie who went to art school with Lyle in Baltimore. The first day, Jeff Conway, a young executive who can't resist a pretty face, follows her to a cafeteria and introduces himself. Although he has a date with wealthy Troy Fallon he takes Lyle to dinner the next evening and as they dance he tells her he loves her. She knows she loves him. Jeff asks her to go to Tennant's week-end party and to marry him. She says she can't until she has repaid her uncle for her art education and she tells him she sends money to her ailing mother in Miami. Troy, a belated guest, makes a scene, telling Lyle why Jeff didn't meet her that evening and he says to be trusted, then leaves weeping. Bonnie finds a note to Michael from Helene, Jeff's daughter, and takes it to her firm, making a luncheon date, sees them together later and, being little else, goes to her mother in Baltimore. Stephen promotes Jeff and sends him to Chicago as an important mission. Jeff gets drunk there and Stephen discharges him. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XIII

"You're making fun of me." He laughed. "I am not! But seriously, I sent for you to tell you that if Jeff hasn't a job by the first of the year, I'll try to find him one." He held up his hand in defense and gave a short laugh. "Wait! Don't flare up! Don't say that Jeff wouldn't take a job! I got for him if it were the last job in the world! He won't have to know. And I want to tell you because there's a strong possibility that Jeff hasn't been to the company I have in mind. And so you must mention that company, very casually, of course, and ask him and there and fill out an application. And after about a week, they'll call him. And Jeff will think you are a very smart girl. Which you are."

"Now you're teasing me." She knew she was grinning impishly. As she closed the door, she heard him chuckle. It was 5 o'clock. Jeff was not meeting her tonight. He was coming to the apartment at eight. He had said at noon. But suddenly she could not wait until evening to talk to him—just to talk to him. . . . Going into a telephone booth, she called his number. When the phone was taken up at the other end of the line, Lyle heard many voices, much laughter, and a radio playing loudly. Then a girl said, "Hello. Jeff Conway's apartment."

Lyle said nothing. She replaced the instrument on the hook, came out of the booth, and walked to the elevator slowly. Jeff was having a party and he had not invited her! He had not even said he was planning to have one! But perhaps friends had come in uninvited. . . . It was a comforting thought for as long as it lasted. . . . but it wasn't true. Jeff was not meeting her today because he had planned this party and he had meant to exclude her! But why? Finishing her work, she got her hat and coat and in a few minutes was walking heedlessly through the snow. Over and over she told herself that she would not go to Jeff's apartment because she would not be able to disguise her hurt and anger. Who was the girl? Instantly she hated herself for wondering. It did not matter who the girl was. It did not matter how many girls were there. What mattered was that she had hurt her. What Jeff had deliberately and schemingly eliminated her! She thought, "I can't let these ugly feelings in. I can't let them grow. Perhaps it would be better if I went and saw for myself. I could be wrong. Oh, I hope I am wrong!"

Outside Jeff's apartment she hesitated, hearing the voices and the laughter and the music she had heard over the telephone. She thought, "I feel that I'm the wife who comes home at the wrong time. I feel I'm being such a poor sport. But why didn't he want me?" She knocked. Somebody opened the door. There were probably a dozen people in the smoky room. Girls in dark dresses and small jark hats, their fur coats piled in a heap in a chair, their wet galoshes scattered everywhere. And young men bending down to fill again glasses only half emptied, holding lighters to cigarettes.

Lyle, still standing at the door, ignored the crowd with one sweeping glance. She did not know any one. None of these people had been at Stephen's. She did not see Jeff. But the next morning she saw him coming out of the kitchen with Troy Fallon. Troy was carrying a plate of small sandwiches. Jeff looked happier than he had for weeks. He was the Jeff every one liked, the gay, genial, generous host. He was the young man with whom he was pleased and proud, the young man his friend patted on the back and flattered. King of his own castle, he was important again. Lyle thought, "And all I have tried to give him during these dark weeks hasn't made him smile as he is smiling now at these people who aren't really his friends. Stephen and I are his true friends. And he hates Stephen. And he—he didn't even hear me one night when I said I loved him."

Then a repulsive thought she could not subdue. . . . "He didn't invite me or tell me about this. Yet I am sure it is my money that is entertaining these fair-weather friends." He saw her. For an instant Jeff just stared. Then, smiling that charming smile that had drawn Lyle to him from the start, he crossed the room to her. Every one saw her now. Every one stopped talking and stared. Jeff took her cold hands in the brown gloves. "Hello, darling." He avoided her eyes. "I don't believe you know many of these people." She was introduced. As she left one little group to go to another, she knew that the girls were going for their coats and their galoshes and that the men had gone into the hall for their coats and hats. Troy said, "How are you, Miss Marsh? So nice to see you again." And to Jeff, "It was a grand party." And to Lyle again, her eyes mocking, "It's too bad you didn't get here sooner." They were leaving, Lyle thought, because she had come. They were leaving because they knew she had not been invited and her sobriety dampened their high spirits. Jeff closed the door after the last guest and lighted a cigaret.

Boys' High and Monroe Aggies Battle Tonight at Ball Park

All in the GAME

by Jack Troy

Southeastern conference football teams are keenly interested in two games to be played on Saturday.

One is Alabama's interconference battle with Southern California and the other is Tulane's interconference clash with Clemson College.

The openers are expected to provide a real gauge as to the strength of Alabama and Tulane.

If Alabama wins, conference teams that are on the schedule to play Alabama will breathe easier.

If Tulane defeats Clemson handily, foes of the Green Wave will view the situation, not with equanimity, but alarm.

That sounds paradoxical, but the facts are these: If Alabama is tripped by Southern California, the Crimson Tide will be madder than the fabled wet hen. And Coach Frank Thomas' boys then would spend the rest of the season taking it out on southern rivals.

Clemson is a tough opening opponent for almost any Southern conference school. So-o-o-o, if it turns out that Tulane has a field day, or at least wins going away, then the alarm will be spread.

Should Alabama beat Southern California, as expected, the Tidesmen naturally won't let down. But at the same time they won't be mad at anybody.

Coach Frank Thomas has a thundering herd under canvas and shoulder pads this fall. And it is no comforting thought (to opponents) to think of these behemoths thundering along the October and November trail bent on making up for September mistakes.

If form is followed in any degree, however, the long train ride back from Los Angeles is going to be made pleasant for the Tidesmen by the reflection of another triumph on the west coast.

Howard Jones is probably worrying more about the outcome of this game than any of Alabama's southern opponents. The creed of the Tide is for revenge. They fumbled the Rose Bowl game away.

So Alabama, ending the old and starting the new in the same section of the country, is ready with a more experienced, more versatile and, perhaps, harder hitting team. The fumbles may be on the other foot, so to speak.

It may be that the Trojans will find it difficult to hold the ball—when they have it.

Probably 70,000 of the 90,000 spectators who saw Alabama beaten by California last January 1 were coast fans. And most of them doubtless realized that day that Alabama fell short of greatness by only a shade.

That shade represented a bit of youth and inexperience. The shades are no longer drawn. Unless the figuring is all out of line with the material, Alabama is ready with one of its strongest teams in recent years.

OF INTEREST TO GEORGIANS.

South Carolina's invasion of Cincinnati to play Xavier is of particular interest to Georgians and Georgia Bulldog followers.

This will be the second game for the Gamecocks, coached by Messrs. Enright, Twomey, Smith and DuPre. They were most impressive in their Monday night opener against Erskine.

Xavier affords a fine second game test. And South Carolina's performance will give some sort of an idea as to what to expect when the Gamecocks and the Bulldogs tie up on October 1 at Columbia.

The Bulldogs play their first game under the new coaching regime of Hunt, Sikes, Lampe and Butts Saturday afternoon against The Citadel, which was upset last week by Davidson.

The Citadel is expected to bounce back and give the Bulldogs an interesting game while the ammunition holds out.

EXTRA POINTS AND FIELD GOALS.

Extra points and field goals were important factors in deciding a championship last fall. Alabama had the big gun—Sandy Sanford. He couldn't miss.

Well, Alabama has Sanford again and also Country Davis, who is said to be just as good. Well, with two of a kind for extra points and goals from the field, the Tidesmen shouldn't be worrying much. Sanford is injured at the present time but is expected to be ready for the big games later on.

The point is that another championship may be decided along similar lines this fall. A margin of one or three points may determine important games. They usually do.

Point after performances, always important, will be vital if the race shapes up after the bell rings as it appears before the initial kick-off.

The teams that have boys with gifted toes will guard them.

MARIST MEETS NORTH FULTON AT 3:30 TODAY

Decatur, Toccoa Clash Tonight at Decatur; Cadets Play Russell.

By ROY WHITE.

A choice program of one game this afternoon and three tonight is offered Atlanta's prep football fans.

Marist College and North Fulton, two members of the North Georgia Interscholastic conference, open the fireworks at 3:30 o'clock on the North Fulton field near Buckhead. It's the first game of their schedules.

Russell High and G. M. A. will battle at 7:30 o'clock under the lights of the Russell High field in East Point.

Boys' High and the Monroe Aggies, two contenders for the Georgia Interscholastic Athletic Association crown, now worn by Tech High, will battle at 8 o'clock at Ponce de Leon park. It's the first game for the Aggies and the second for the Purples.

Decatur High entertains Toccoa High at 8 o'clock on the Decatur field in the other game. Decatur will be shooting for its first victory, while Toccoa will battle for its second win, having beaten Fulton High, 20 to 6, last Friday.

Tech High will leave at 8 o'clock this morning for New York and two games before returning home with Marist October 6. The Smithies will play Pompton Lakes next Monday night and close the eastern trip with Union Endicott on Saturday, October 1.

A workout is planned for either this afternoon near Charlotte, N. C., or near Pompton Lakes late Saturday afternoon, depending on how far they travel today.

Coaches Gabe Tolbert and Sidney Scarborough will take 28 players and a manager on the New York trip.

Commercial High journeys to Macon to battle Selby Buck's Lanier High Poles tonight in Mercer's stadium. Both teams have been beaten, Commercial losing to Boys' High, 14 to 0, and Lanier losing to Jordan High, 2 to 0, in Columbus last week.

The Marist-North Fulton and Boys' High-Monroe games will be the center of attractions for both games are in a series of eliminations to determine both city and state championships.

Marist and North Fulton are much improved over last year, tonight in an effort to avenge last year's 16-to-0 defeat by the Aggies. The Purples are definitely on the upgrade with an excellent backfield talent to cut loose at the Aggies tonight.

Monroe lost heavily by graduation and will depend entirely on a bunch of reserves to carry on. Several promising stars have joined the team, but the Georgia high school rule will be ineligible for tonight's game with the Purples.

G. M. A. and Russell High are in the unknown class.

Macon Wins Title In Sally Play-Off

MACON, Ga., Sept. 22.—(P)—The Macon Peaches, beaten out for the pennant by half a game, came from behind tonight to beat Savannah, 5 to 4, in an 11-inning struggle to win the Shaugnessy playoff title.

Macon will play either Mobile or Selma of the Southeastern league in the "little Dixie series," starting here Sunday afternoon. Mobile and Selma now are tied at 2-all in games in the Shaugnessy finals of their circuit.

Moore Sees Atlanta Win Second Game

Eddie Moore, ex-pilot of the Crackers, was a spectator at the Atlanta-Nashville playoff game last night at Ponce de Leon park. Moore, who piloted the Crackers to two pennants and a third place in three years at the helm, finished out the season this year with Syracuse in the International league and played every position but first base.

-BOWLING-

The Bell System, Junior Chamber of Commerce and Sinclair Refining Company leagues opened scheduled competition on the downtown alleys Thursday with each of the three leagues having close play in their match games.

E. E. Fuller, of the Central Offices team in the Bell System league, was outstanding for his league as he turned in the high three-game series with a count of 359 that included games of 106, 119 and 133. Central won three close games from Accounting, the second game being won in the roll-off of a tie.

L. Goodman's high game of 139 was the top single game turned in by a bowler in the telephone league. M. D. Barnett's 327, C. W. McGee's 327, W. Morris 311, J. Lewanda 318 and J. A. Burns 293 were among other outstanding sets bowled in the loop.

Bob Regenstein, of the Model Laundry team, turned in a sparkling series of 358 to pace the bowlers in the Junior Chamber of Commerce league. Ray Hutchins played a big part in his Construction team's victory as he rolled up a count of 344 to pace the bowlers in the Federal league. Al Turner, of Office Management, had a high single game of 132.

With a high single game of 116 and a series of 332, L. C. Werder paved the way to a two-game victory for his Emerald team in the Sinclair league. In the City Tenpin league, Bill Elmer turned in the high single game of 201 while Carmichael had the top three-game set of 528.

S.E.C. MAGNATES CONVENE TODAY IN FALL SESSION

Discussion of 'Bowl' Games Looms at Executive Meeting Here.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Another round with the post-season "bowl" game problem may be staged by the executive committee of the Southeastern conference when it assembles here today for the regular September meeting.

A year ago the conference voted to outlaw all post-season classics except the Rose Bowl and Sugar Bowl games.

This stand was reversed at the annual conference meeting at Jackson, Miss., in December, when Auburn asked and received approval for participation in the Orange Bowl game at Miami, Fla.

At that time conference authorities said the matter reverted back to the original stand of the organization, whose by-laws on the angle state:

"No member of the conference shall engage in any football game after the expiration of its season except by consent of the conference."

The vote by which Auburn obtained permission to play in the Orange Bowl was 7 to 6, indicating there may be another heated session on "bowl" games, if and when the matter again comes before the conference.

Secretary W. D. Funkhouser, in announcing the meeting, said any matters might be brought to the attention of the executive committee, either in person or in writing. An open meeting will be held during the morning and in the afternoon the group will go into executive session.

Florida Delegation To Attend Meeting.

A delegation of folks from Miami and Florida is coming to today's conference for passes. Coach John Patrick put his Oglethorpe Stormy Petrels through a hard scrimmage yesterday in preparation for the Presbyterian College-Oglethorpe clash here Saturday.

With only one man on the injury list, the Birds expect to be able to put their full strength on the field against the Blue Stockings. Sole injury is "Red" Lingle, 117-pound pony back, who has a sprained ankle and will be out for the next three weeks.

This has been compensated for, however, by the return of George Manassa, one of Patrick's shifty and hard-driving fullbacks. Manassa was out of the Furman game last week with a torn knee ligament.

Since the collapse of the Petrels' pass defense last week against the Hurricane, who completed seven out of their first seven passes, Patrick has been drilling the backfield to play a man-for-man defense against the receivers and working on his line to rush the passer.

PETRELS FINISH ROUGH DRILLS

Using his favorite 7-1-2-1 defense, with the addition of a man-to-man play for passes, Coach John Patrick put his Oglethorpe Stormy Petrels through a hard scrimmage yesterday in preparation for the Presbyterian College-Oglethorpe clash here Saturday.

With only one man on the injury list, the Birds expect to be able to put their full strength on the field against the Blue Stockings. Sole injury is "Red" Lingle, 117-pound pony back, who has a sprained ankle and will be out for the next three weeks.

Alabama Will Reach Los Angeles Today

TUCSON, Ariz., Sept. 22.—(P) Cheered by the return to practice of all cripples, Alabama's Crimson Tide was en route to Los Angeles tonight on the last leg of a journey westward. The Crimson Tide will play the Southern California team Saturday at Southern California.

The squad will arrive at 8 a. m. tomorrow, a light workout at the Coliseum tomorrow afternoon will complete preparations for the important opening battle.

Charlie Boswell appeared fit to team with Herky Mosley at left halfback Saturday. Cullen Sugg, guard, ran signals but probably will be held in reserve unless needed. Bill Sienon's ankle showed further improvement.

Betting odds at Los Angeles were quoted at 10-7, favoring the Trojans, on the eve of Alabama's arrival.

CADET IS THREAT TO BULLDOGS

Little Graham Edwards, flashy halfback of The Citadel eleven, is all set to run against Joel Hunt's Georgia Bulldogs Saturday afternoon at Sanford stadium. Edwards is the outstanding Cadet back and a triple-threat.

Berg Meets Miley, Page Plays Graham

Three Curtis Cup Golfers Reach Semi-Finals of Women's National Amateur Tourney.

By DOROTHY KIRBY.

WESTMORELAND COUNTY CLUB, WILMETTE, Ill., Sept. 22. The national amateur field has now narrowed down to four players, two of whom, Patty Berg and Estelle Lawson Page, the favorite, and a girl from California named Peggy Graham. I remember at the national two years ago Peggy had come all the way from California to Summit, N. J., and then didn't qualify. But she has now made up for lost time by going to the semi-finals. She won today by 5 up and 3 to play.

Mrs. Page also won, but by a very close margin. It was to the tune of one up over a former Curtis cup player, Mrs. Goldthwaite.

BERG MATCH EXCITING.

Patty Berg's march was quite exciting. She was three down at the sixth hole but didn't stay that way long. Her usual game began to come back to her at about the eighth hole and from there on out it was all Patty's w-y.

The girl she was playing was not an easy opponent by a long shot. It was Dorothy Traung, who has put many of the good ones out of tournaments. I saw her make one of the finest chip shots I have seen. It was on the sixth green. Traung's ball was just off the edge of the green and she sunk it for a birdie three after Patty had just put her second shot right on the green for a possible three.

However, Patty missed the putt for her three and Dorothy won the hole.

That is really heartbreaking when someone drops a shot like that on you. Patty evidently had a lot of heart left though.

Now we come to the last match between Marion Miley and Marion McDougall. This was practically Miley's match from start to finish. She won by four and three. Even the best ones miss shots sometimes. On the eleventh hole today Miley was in the rough in two and on her third shot, which was a half shot, she spanked it into the trap on the other side of the fairway, and was she mad? Her face turned every color of the rainbow. The hole was halved in the end, however.

BERG HOLDS EDGE.

I can hardly wait to see the matches tomorrow, especially the one between Miley and Berg. Now this one is sure to be something. I was talking to Marion after her round today and asked her how many times she has played Patty before this. As she remembers it they have met five times and Patty has won three times. So it will be quite close tomorrow. Marion said that her caddy had a good suggestion today when he said that it looked as if she didn't get started until the back nine and he thought it would be a good idea to play nine holes in the morning just to get warmed up.

Mary K. Brown was out today watching the games. If you remember she was a very good tennis player and also a fine golfer.

AUBURN TO OPEN SEASON TONIGHT AT MONTGOMERY

Meagher Starts 5th Season Against Birmingham-Southern.

AUBURN, Ala., Sept. 22.—Primed for their most severe opening game test since 1934, the 1935 Auburn football Tigers will launch one of America's hardest 10-game schedules against the Dixie conference championship Birmingham-Southern club at Cramton Bowl in Montgomery tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The battle is expected to attract a record-smashing throng of 15,000.

Annual opponent of the Tigers in a moonlight bout in Montgomery since 1928, Birmingham-Southern is rapidly becoming one of Auburn's most bitter athletic enemies. The Panthers of Jenks Gillem hold three victories over the Plainsmen. They were victorious in 1928, 1930 and 1934.

MEAGHER'S FIFTH.

This year's Auburn team is Coach Jack Meagher's fifth at the Plains. The affable coach has been the Tigers' athletic boss and head grid master longer than any coach since Mike Donahue resigned in 1922.

In starting their fifth campaign under Skipper Meagher, the Plainsmen will not open the season as strong as they were in 1937, which brought them the honor of becoming the first Dixie football machine ever to win the Orange Bowl championship. A half-dozen starters have been lost since the Orange Bowl crown was annexed and two of the six, Center Lester Antley and Halfback Jimmie Fenton, were as great as any pair in America. Antley and Fenton were the main cogs in the '38 11-cylinder unit.

HAS TO GUESS.

One has to guess at one or two positions to come up with Auburn's probable starting lineup. Coach Meagher has not decided on the permanent personnel of the club and the experts are liable to be crossed up a little in Montgomery.

THE PROBABLE LINEUP.

AUBURN: Pol. L.E. Aldridge; Burdett, L.T.; Burns, L.C.; Morgan, C.G.; McNeill, R.G.; McNeill, R.T.; McNeill, R.E.; McNeill, R.B.; McNeill, R.L.; McNeill, R.H.; McNeill, R.F.

Officials—Ervin (Drake), referee; McMichael (St. Marys), umpire; Severance (Oberlin), head linesman; Meust (Armory), tie judge.

Time of game, 8 o'clock Friday night. Place, Cramton Bowl, Montgomery.

9THINNING RALLY BY DRESSSEN NINE NETS 3 MARKERS

Little Bobby Durham Relieves Beckman and Stops Scoring.

By JACK TROY.

The Crackers have to win only two more games and they'll be in the Dixie series, Nashville, on the other hand, needs four.

On the basis of these odds, it looks mighty like the Crackers are headed for the wide open spaces of Texas.

Bill Beckman, who hadn't beaten Nashville all year, got credit for last night's victory—the Crackers' second straight. The score was 4 to 3.

That hardly tells the story, as the boys say. Not a Vol got past second going into the ninth. Then Beckman sprouted wings and soared into the stratosphere.

DURHAM TO RELIEF.

After the second run was across and the tying run was on first with one out, Manager Paul Richards signaled for Bob Durham, the little mound man.

Durham almost got them out in one play. Johnny Hill started what looked like a sure double play but Lipscomb's throw to first was wild and the Vols scored a third run.

Manager Dresssen promptly stuck Walter Rospond in the game as a pinch hitter and Durham almost as promptly made him pop up.

So Bill Beckman, who had pitched magnificently until the ninth, yielding only four hits, was credited with his twenty-third victory of the year.

CROUCH BLASTED.

The duel of the 21-game winners was good while it lasted. Bill Crouch, the Vols' ace right-hander, retired for a pinch hitter in the eighth, leaving the game three runs in the red. Ralph West, a former Cracker, finished. He gave up the fourth and final run.

Ernie Oetting, the Crackers' sensational young left fielder, hit two

George Picard Wins Southeastern P.G.A. Tourney With 301

CHARLESTON PRO OVERTAKES COOK AT PONTE VEDRA

Orville White Is Third;
Dunkelberger Leads Amateurs.

PONTE VEDRA BEACH, Fla., Sept. 22.—(AP)—George Picard, of Charleston, S. C., won the 1936 Southeastern Professional Golfers' Association title today with a 72-hole card of 301.

Picard nosed out Gene Cook, Anniston, Ala., professional, who had led at the halfway mark yesterday and who still stood at the top, tied with George Slingerland, Greensboro, after 54 holes today.

Cook fell to a 78 on his final round today and carded a total of 302.

Third came Orville White, Greensboro, N. C., with 303, and Clyde Ustina Jr., West Palm Beach, and Charles Farlow, Burlington, N. C., ranked with 305's.

Arthur Ham, Charlotte, N. C., placed sixth with 306.

Bobby Dunkelberger, Greensboro, N. C., was the low amateur with 309.

Howard Beckett, pro at the Capital City Club, Atlanta, Ga., finished up with an 88 for a total score of 335.

'No Man's Post Safe,' Joel Hunt Intimates

The Citadel May Expect
Aerial Attack by Bulldog Eleven.

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 22.—Expressing disappointment at the showing made by the varsity squad in a scrimmage yesterday afternoon with the University of Georgia Freshman team, Coach Joel Hunt intimated that he may completely reorganize the Bulldog team.

"No man's position is safe," said Hunt. "If I have to I will have a complete house cleaning and replace every senior with a sophomore. I will have a better idea of who can stand up under fire in a couple of weeks."

NO PREDICTION.
Coach Hunt would make no prediction on the season's outcome but stated that it looked far from rosy due to lack of graduation, injury, inexperience, and lack of reserves.

Spectators at today's practice session on Sanford field could well imagine themselves witnessing a slow motion news reel. The Bulldogs lined up opposite the varsity and drifted through Citadel plays at slow motion in order that the first team might comprehend each phase of the formation.

If practice indications are correct The Citadel may expect an aerial attack in the opening game Saturday, for today—as in each previous practice—time was spent at passing, punting and quick kicking. Under Hunt's instruction all the tail backs are becoming adept at both passing and kicking.

However, most of the duties of this department will fall to Harry Stevens and Earl Hise with Billy Mims subject to call for emergency passing.

TIME ALLOTTED.
Time was also allotted this afternoon for practice in converting the point after touchdowns. Mims and Ned Barbre were sending them between the posts with consistency.

Four first-string men missed practice this afternoon. In addition to Smiley Johnson and Winston Hodgson—varsity guards—Alternate Captain Marvin Gillespie was out with a bruised shoulder and Bob Salisbury, No. 1 quarterback, was out with a back injury. Both Gillespie and Salisbury are expected to be ready for the game Saturday. Johnson and Hodgson will remain on the side lines.

M'CLURKIN WINS
OVER GUY, 4 TO 2

L. W. McClurkin, the medalist, led the favorites into the semi-final round of the annual newspaper golf tournament with victories Thursday on the Capital City Country Club course. McClurkin beat Walter C. J. 4-2.

Roy Fuss, a former champion, Emmett Morris and Guy Butler were other winners in the championship flight.

The semi-finals in the championship and consolation flights and the final in all other flights will be played today.

Finals in the championship and consolation will be played Monday.

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT.
L. W. McClurkin beat Walter C. J. 4-3.
Roy Fuss beat J. S. Pope, 4-3.
Emmett Morris beat Melvin J. 4-3.
Guy Butler beat Ed Miles, 2-1.

CONSOLATION.
J. L. Lykes beat W. E. Cofer, 2-1.
Linton Hopkins beat J. F. Wallis, 3-2.
Harry Felt beat Ben Friedman, 6-4.

SECOND FLIGHT.
Roger Bond beat Randy Hearst, 3-2.
J. B. Low beat Martin Lutz, default.

THIRD FLIGHT.
Watts Kince beat John Smith, 1 up.
Bill Hart beat Hoke Welch, default.

Babe Risko Will Arrive Saturday

Brown in Top Shape;
Public Workouts Daily
at Warren Arena.

Eddie (Babe) Risko, former king of the world's middleweights, will arrive in Atlanta Saturday, in time for a workout Saturday afternoon in preparation for his 10-round bout with Ben Brown at Warren arena Monday night. All fighters on the card may be seen at the arena in public workouts from 2 o'clock until 4 each afternoon.

Ben Brown, according to his manager, Sam Sobel, is in the greatest condition of his life, and ready to make good in this, his biggest and most important fight.

Brown, meeting a more experienced, foxier foe, will gamble on a knockout and so confident is he and his manager that they have left the selection of a referee entirely up to promoters and Risko.

"Anybody who can count 10 will do," declares Sobel. "The way Ben is hitting, no one can stand up before him longer than five rounds."

Brown has won his last four fights by knockouts, but Atlanta fans remember well that Ben had considerable difficulty in hitting Risko in their last fight, which was called a draw, and except for Risko's kidney punching, which, under the rules, would have prevented his taking more than two rounds, Brown got the worst of the milling.

A win will be important to Risko in his comeback campaign and a victory for Brown will elevate him to the front ranks of the middleweights, if, indeed, he is not already there.

Eddie (Babe) Risko, former king of the world's middleweights, will arrive in Atlanta Saturday, in time for a workout Saturday afternoon in preparation for his 10-round bout with Ben Brown at Warren arena Monday night. All fighters on the card may be seen at the arena in public workouts from 2 o'clock until 4 each afternoon.

Ben Brown, according to his manager, Sam Sobel, is in the greatest condition of his life, and ready to make good in this, his biggest and most important fight.

Brown, meeting a more experienced, foxier foe, will gamble on a knockout and so confident is he and his manager that they have left the selection of a referee entirely up to promoters and Risko.

"Anybody who can count 10 will do," declares Sobel. "The way Ben is hitting, no one can stand up before him longer than five rounds."

Brown has won his last four fights by knockouts, but Atlanta fans remember well that Ben had considerable difficulty in hitting Risko in their last fight, which was called a draw, and except for Risko's kidney punching, which, under the rules, would have prevented his taking more than two rounds, Brown got the worst of the milling.

A win will be important to Risko in his comeback campaign and a victory for Brown will elevate him to the front ranks of the middleweights, if, indeed, he is not already there.

McClelland Winner Of East Lake Bogey

Judge Ralph McClelland was the only golfer to hit the winning number of 71 in the regular mid-weekly blind bogey tournament yesterday afternoon at the East Lake Country Club. Fifty-five players.

With 72's were John McClelland, E. A. Burtzloff, W. Peters, C. G. De Normandie and B. Barrett. D. R. Paige and W. L. Markert had 70's while P. G. Lombard, L. U. West, J. A. Vaughan, Carling Dinkler Jr. and Dr. J. C. Wright came in with 73's.

Travis Johnson, E. S. Humphreys, J. H. Irwin and F. O. Sallee had 75's.

timely doubles to upset Crouch. Jack Bolling, the rabbit, also delivered twice in the pinch. Beckman himself came through with a double at the right time.

The hits were the same on both sides—eight. The Vols made none of their hits count until the ninth, however, when they bunched four to bench Beckman.

IN NASHVILLE TONIGHT.
The battle scene now shifts to Nashville. And tonight Leo Moon and Ralph Birkhofer, a couple of portside pitchers, will tie up in the Dell.

Saturday is an off day, with the series to be continued on Sunday and Monday. If the final two games of the four-out-of-seven series are needed, the teams will return to Atlanta for the finish.

The Crackers are hopeful of winning four in a row, but strange things can happen in the Dell. If they win one out of three over there it won't be a bad record.

GETTING DOUBLES.
Oetting started the Crackers in the right direction in the third inning. He doubled to left. Beckman fanned to make it two out. Bolling then doubled down the third base line, scoring Oetting.

It was Oetting again in the fifth. He again doubled to left. This time, however, Beckman dropped a double in right to score him.

Mauldin singled in the seventh. Oetting was walked intentionally. Beckman flied out. Bolling came through again, driving a single through the box and sending Mauldin home with the third run.

CROUCH TO SHOWERS.
West took the mound for the Vols in the eighth, replacing Crouch. After Mauldin flied out, Hill singled off Coscarart's shins. Lipscomb walked. Mauldin flied to Walker. Then Richards singled, scoring Hill. Oetting was hit by a pitched ball. Beckman struck out.

The Vols got a man past second for the first time in the ninth. Beckman then collapsed. Rodda doubled. Chapman popped to Lipscomb. Lee singled to center, Rodda holding second. Haas singled to center, Rodda scoring and Lee going to third. Coscarart singled to left, scoring Lee. Durham replaced Beckman. The tying run was on first.

Hofferth forced Haas, Hill to Lipscomb. Lipscomb threw wild at first and Haas scored. It was a set-up double play. Rospond batted for Brown, and popped to Chatham. Durham's relief pitching was perfect. An error gave the Vols the last run on a sure double play.

At Warren Cancelled

A light-heavyweight wrestling match scheduled tonight at Warren's Arena and a dance set for Saturday night at the same place have been cancelled.

The cancellation on both events was due to the death of George T. Warren, father of L. O. and V. P. Warren and grandfather of Virgil Warren, promoter of the arena.

Letter Gives Vivid Glimpse of War Fear

JEANETTE HERENGER.

THERESE POMAILLLOU.

French exchange students at Agnes Scott, Miss Jeanette Marie Francoise Herenger (left), heard of troubles at home from Therese Pomaillou (right), who was a student at the college last year. Miss Pomaillou's letter, received yesterday, told of reactions before Hitler's famous Nuremberg speech Monday a week ago.

ELECTION IN AMERICUS.
AMERICUS, Ga., Sept. 22.—The terms of Americus' mayor and three city councilmen will expire January 1, and an election probably will be held October 26, it was learned today. Mayor Thomas L. Bell, serving his first two-year term, has said he will offer for reelection. Councilmen whose terms expire are Frank Stapleton, Will

Agnes Scott Exchange Student's Missive Tells of Terror.

A young and attractive French exchange student at Agnes Scott, Miss Jeanette Marie Francoise Herenger, of Grenoble, who received a letter yesterday from Miss Therese Pomaillou, an exchange student at Agnes Scott last year.

The letter, written prior to Hitler's eagerly anticipated Nuremberg speech, said, in part: "You cannot imagine what this week has been for French and European people. To think that perhaps, before the end of the week, we should be in war again! It is dreadful.

"Imagine what it can be to fear that your brothers, all the men of your family, friends, will go and fight tomorrow and that your whole country is in danger. How can somebody be heartless enough to desire it?"

"At least, I can tell you that the French people don't want it and would do anything not to have it. But we are so near it!"

"I hope, we all hope, it's the only thing we can do, because all depends on Hitler and what he will say Monday."

As for Jeanette's own reactions, she said:

"Naturally, I fear for my two brothers. But to tell the truth I have been so busy since I left home September 10 I haven't been watching the developments closely. And as yet I have received no letters from my family."

Jeanette, while, is becoming popular with the other students. They like the way she calls toothpaste "tooth soap." Jeanette is here to study American history and literature.

Miss Pomaillou was a popular student while at Agnes Scott, and participated in dramatic productions.

1 DIES IN COLLAPSE AT FORT PECK DAM

FORT PECK, Mont., Sept. 22.—(UP)—A 100-foot section of the earth-filled wall of Fort Peck dam collapsed today, throwing at least eight men into the water of Fort Peck lake. At least one man was killed. The fate of the others was not determined immediately. The accident occurred on the upstream edge of the dam, the largest of its kind in the world. The dam wall itself remained intact, holding back the water, army engineers said.
